HARRY THAW'S MOTHER ATTACKS DR. PARKHURST

(This article by Mrs. Thaw, mother of Harry Thaw, was sent by the Hearst Newspapers to Rev. Dr. Parkhurst. It is published here at the request of Dr. Parkhurst, who agrees with the American that Mrs. Thaw should be permitted to have her say conspicuously.

To-morrow Dr. Parkhurst in these columns will reply to Mrs. Thaw. Our readers will be glad to read both the statement of Mr. Thaw's mother and Dr. Parkhurst's reply.

Passive endurance ceased on reading an article so cruel as one that appeared recently over the signature of Dr. Parkhurst.

Dr. Parkhurst's article properly deprecated the effects of newspaper reports of criminal trials and cited the Thaw trial as an example of dealing with matters lying at "a low moral level." Has Dr. Parkhurst forgotten his self-appointed crusade some years ago, when night after night he visited houses of ill-repute; then published broadcast accounts of his observations? Right-minded persons, at the time, regarded this exposition of indecency as both useless and disgusting.

Homicide trials are a grim necessity. Grossly misconducted as the Thaw trials were and horribly repulsive to those immediately connected, they were essentially a warning, especially to careless mothers. Gilded vice, in its most repulsive form, was painted in sulphurous colors. The effect was not unlike that produced on the youth of Athens when drunken slaves were introduced to emphasize lectures on sobriety and temperance.

Dr. Parkhurst professes to be a Christian minister, yet this is not the first time he has gone out of his way to throw mud at this defenceless man. Gifted as my son is as a writer, he is powerless to reply to such attacks by reason of restrictions at the place where he is now illegally detained. This is the reason I answer at once, requesting that you will, in common justice, give this communication the same prominence as the other. After it appears I shall give a statement uncovering infamy which no one has had the courage or honesty heretofore to expose. Some newspapers may suppress or mutilate it as they have already garbled many facts, but the corrupting influences over them are not unknown.

Lawyer for Thaw Prevents Mother from Making Further Statement

Matteawan, N. Y., May 12, 1909.

Motherlike and sensitive over long delay, Mrs. Thaw felt so keenly the references to her son in a recent article by Dr. Parkhurst that she made answer on the spur of the moment and mailed it without considering either her act or myself. Both my client and I deprecate this departure from her customary reserve and advise that no further statement be made.

This is written by request of Mrs. Thaw, who wishes it to come immediately below her own letter.

ROOSEVELT CALLS TOLSTOI PERVERT

NEW YORK, May 13.—"A dreamy and fantastic philosopher" is Theodore Roosevelt's characterization of Count Leo Tolstoi in the current issue of the Outlook. The Russian author wrote a letter in support of William J. Bryan during the late campaign. This Colonel Roosevelt takes as his text, saying of the Russian, among other things:

"As is often the case with a certain type of mystical zealot, there is in him a dark streak which tells of moral perversion. That side of his teaching which is partially manifested in the revolting 'Kreutzer Sonata' can do little damage in America, for it would appeal only to decadents.

"The important point is that his preaching is compounded of some very beautiful and lofty sentiment with much that is utterly fantastic and some things that are grossly immoral.

"He advocated Mr. Bryan on the theory that Mr. Bryan was regarded as representing peace and anti-militarism. Now there is but one point in the platform of either political party in 1908 which contained any element of menace to the people of the world. This was the plank in the Bryantite platform which demanded the immediate exclusion by law of all Asiatic laborers and therefore of the Japanese."

MALDEN LOSES CONVERSE TAXES

The city of Boston will gain about $8,000 in its revenue, it is roughly estimated, since Costello C. Converse, formerly of Malden, now claims this city as his residence. He is assessed in Malden for personal property, valued at $500,000. Boston is his home, the Boston tax board would have the right to do the assessing upon his personal estate. Boston street is given as the Boston thoroughfare where he resides.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

DR. DRAPER LEFT BIG FUND TO HARVARD

Harvard will receive a trust fund created by the will of the late Dr. F. W. Draper of Brookline, for thirty-five years a medical examiner of Suffolk county. Though the exact valuation of the estate is not known, the amount coming to Harvard is expected to be large. The will, dated August 27, 1904, provides that after the widow and the two sons have a certain income, the bequest to the university takes effect without restriction.

The AMERICAN is Boston's great home paper.

U. S. PREPARES TO TAKE CUBA

Affairs Not Going Satisfactorily in the Island, and the Army Is Making Full Arrangements for an Invasion in Case of Necessity.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—That a third armed invasion of Cuba by the United States is not improbable in the not distant future is the belief of many well-informed army and navy men here. Naturally, all effort to induce them to speak openly on the subject is useless.

Each day the island government is becoming more involved and plunging deeper in the mire of financial difficulties. There is said to be a rapid relapse in the conditions left by the United States a few months ago.

It is recognized by the administration that intervention is slowly becoming more imperative because of the growing complications facing the new government, but the administrations here is diplomatically powerless so far as even hinting at the subject is concerned. It could not well be otherwise for the present.

Plans for the landing of armed forces at Havana and Cienfuegos have been prepared by the general staff of the army. The utmost secrecy surrounds these plans, it is needless to say, and of necessity to cover their movements, the war department officials will stoutly deny the existing facts, as will other administration officials, but nevertheless they are there.

Army Ready to Move.

The plans are known only to high officers of the army, who have under lock and key detailed printed provisional orders for the movements of infantry and cavalry forces.

This force would be drawn from Platteburg and Madison barracks, N. Y.; Fort Myer, Va., and Fort McPherson, Ga. According to the plan, they could embark from Fortress Monroe on two army transports within two days. In Cuba these troops would be garrisoned at Columbia barracks, Havana, and at Cienfuegos barracks.

Conditions in Cuba are believed to be nearing a crisis through the actions of the new government. In addition to the heavy burden placed on the Cubans by the United States, in its nineteen million bond issue, the government has practically trebled the arsenal property to the railroad and incurred an additional responsibility of six millions.

Jobs for Patriots.

Further than that the new government is creating hundreds of offices and filling them with Cubans. Many of the men who fought for "Cuba Libre" believe they are not receiving their reward and may make trouble, necessitating intervention by the United States.

President Taft and administration officials refuse to admit the seriousness of the situation for reasons of policy. The President has always been proud of the manner in which the United States handled affairs in Cuba and believes that action must be justified.

TOWN HALL LOST IN BEDFORD, N. H., FIRE

BEDFORD, N. H., May 13.—The Town Hall, a two-and-a-half-story wooden structure, was burned to the ground to-day. Many valuable Summer residences, owned by wealthy Manchesterites, were in great fire, and were saved from destruction by the arrival of apparatus from Manchester, seven miles away. The damage to the structure and contents amounted to $15,000. The Narragansett Grange, one of the largest organizations in the town, which had valuable articles stored in the building, places its loss at several thousand dollars. A number of horses that had paraphernalia in one of the side halls suffered losses.

The residences of George F. Barnard, Allen H. King and Dr. George Jones caught fire several times, and were saved by the prompt work of a bucket brigade of 100 men, there being no permanent fire department in the town.

LOWELL SEES RIFTS IN PLANET MARS

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., May 13.—Professor Percival Lowell says that he has observed two rifts in the Martian south polar cap, in longitude 350 degrees and 240 degrees, respectively. This is a repetition of the phenomenon observed by him at previous oppositions of Mars, the rifts being the accompaniment of the disappearance of the cap.

THREATENS TO KILL SLAYER OF DAUGHTER

PROVIDENCE, May 13.—Charles W. Regester, the father of Laura E. Regester, who was beaten and strangled to death near her home in Cranston last Monday night, to-day declared that he would kill the man on sight who committed the brutal deed if he could be found.

This statement was made to some of his intimate friends as he took a last look at his daughter's face before she was taken to her grave. Tears streamed from the eyes of the father, but through them there was a flash of fire as he declared:

"If the man who murdered Laura is caught there will be no need for a trial—there will be no trial! I will kill him on sight, an dthe may do with me what they like."

Facts came to the police to-day that led them to the belief that an automobile was in the vicinity of the crime at the time it happened. This clew is being investigated with a view to learning whether or not the murderer might have made his escape in a machine.

Lewis Horn, who was arrested near Riverside Mills, is held by the police to see if he knows anything about the tragedy. The man appears to be mentally unbalanced and officials of the Taunton asylum were asked to come here this afternoon to see if he is a man who left there recently. He says he knows nothinh about the murder.

Hunt Traveling Man.

The name of a traveling man who was attentive to Miss Regester, with whom she exchanged letters and whom she finally discarded for her fiance, Charles Douglass, was to-day given to the police. They began a search for this man to see if he might be able to throw any light on the mysterious crime.

A search is also being made for a gold bracelet of original design, made by Mr. Douglass for Miss Regester. This bracelet was stolen from the girl's wrist. It was a bar bracelet, with plain edges and some fancy scroll work on the face. It bore a small design, worked by Mr. Douglass, which would enable him to identify the missing article anywhere.

John Johnson, an employe of the Sherwood Ice Company, whose building is near the spot where the girl's body was found, and very close to her home, was taken into custody by the police, and after a search for this man to see if he might be able to throw any light on the mysterious crime.

Asleep Near Scene.

Johnson admits that he was at the ice house at the very time the girl was killed. He declares he went there to sleep, found the place locked, tried to sleep in an ice wagon and got too cold, and went home on a car that leaves at 10:01 o'clock.

Johnson, when asked about his visit to the ice house to-day, said:

"I went on the car which left the corner of Zone street at 8:36 o'clock and got there after 9 o'clock. It takes more than half an hour for the car to get out there. I don't know just what the time was. I was tired and sleepy and wanted to get some rest before going out with the wagon.

"To tell the truth, I had a couple of beers in and was a little heavy in the head —just a little."

He said he had been unable to get into the barn because the watchman was not there, having been kicked by a horse and injured. He thought he would wait for the foreman, but found it too uncomfortable.

NEW HAVEN ROAD LOSES HOUSE FIGHT

The J. Henry Leonard bill, providing a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for one year for officers or agents of a railroad corporation who violate the laws of Massachusetts concerning the increase of capital stocks or the acquisition, directly or indirectly, of stock in other roads, was ordered to a third reading in the House of representatives to-day after Representative Robert M. Washburn of Worcester, House chairman of the Committee on Railroads, had made an ineffectual attempt to strike out the imprisonment clause. The bill is aimed at violations of law like those recently made by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. The Washburn amendment was defeated, 190 to 34, on a roll call.

POLICE ARE ON GUARD AT BELMONT

NEW YORK, May 13.—Police Commissioner Bingham issued orders to-day to Inspector Sweeney of the Borough of Queens, whose inspection takes in Belmont Park, to take whatever measures are necessary to prevent gambling at the Belmont track this afternoon.

"The law will be enforced," Commissioner Bingham said, "and I have given orders to take whatever steps may be necessary for its enforcement. It is difficult to get a final interpretation of the law, but when we can get that, all will be plain sailing."

There was some doubt whether the New York police would be able to act, despite the fact that a part of the Belmont track is within the New York line. Formerly there was a gate on the New York side, but the Jockey Club in its efforts to protect betting has closed this gate. Deputy Commissioner Baker said this afternoon that there was yet some uncertainty as to the course the New York police would pursue.

The Metropolitan Handicap, formerly one of the richest stakes of the turf, but greatly reduced in value this season, was the feature event. A fine field, well matched in class and of sufficient size, guaranteed a great contest.

Eight horses entered and their riders, weights and the betting odds, were:

Horse.	Jockey.	Wt.	Odds.
Half Sovereign	Dugan	107	6-1
King James	Shilling	125	8-2
Dorsa	Scoville	108	8-2
Juggler	Upton	112	4-1
Don Cresco	Derrrich	98	20-1
Turncoat	Goldstein	97	10-1
Wyoming	Powers	95	10-1
Restiguche	Powers	117	5-2
Footpad	Mcintyre	102	4-1
Arasee	Crowley	99	4-1
Mary Davis	——	97	50-1
Glucose	——	92	20-1

Bookmakers, professional gamblers and race track followers, backed by the Jockey Club, planned to defeat the anti-race track gambling laws. There was a frantic undertone among the gamblers that betting would be permitted at Belmont Park, and they flocked to the opening in numbers equal to former banner years. Their ardent fight, carried on during the Winter, had apparently borne fruit, and they were confident that they would find little interference from the Nassau county officials. Some were bold enough even to predict that bookmaking would be quietly conducted, but it was the general opinion that betting would be "on the pod."

That betting will be practically untrammeled was indicated by the attitude of the officials of Nassau County.

District Attorney Franklin A. Coles announced that he would not go in the track in person.

"I shall have a number of men from my office at the track to see that the law is not violated," the district attorney said.

"The law will be enforced. There will be no professional gambling and no open bookmaking."

Sheriff Joseph Foster of Nassau County said that he and Sheriff Hurn would be at the track to see that nothing illegal transacted. The sheriff was unwilling to define what constituted gambling in the sense of the law. The strong backing of the Jockey Club and its influential members in control affairs in Nassau County is responsible for this situation. August Belmont himself came out with a statement that gambling on races would be protected by the Jockey Club.

ROOSEVELT BAGS A RHINOCEROS

NAIROBI, British East Africa, May 13.—Theodore Roosevelt's hunting trips continue to be successful. The largest and most recently have fallen before his gun include two more giraffes and a rhinoceros. Kermit Roosevelt has killed a large bull eland. Mr. Roosevelt to-day visited the American mission at Machakos. The entire party will break camp next Monday and proceed to the game on the Juja ranch of George McMillan. All the members of the expedition are well.

The American mission is maintained by the Africa Inland Mission. The station is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hurlburt. The object of the work is the evangelization of the inferior tribes.

THEODORE, JR., WON'T HAVE MAJOR'S TITLE

HARTFORD, Ct., May 13.—Major Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., son of ex-President Roosevelt, who was a military aid on the personal staff of the late Governor L. Lilley, will not serve in like capacity on Governor Frank R. Weeks's staff. The latter reappointed Governor Lilley's staff as his own to-day, but Major Roosevelt's name did not appear, he having declined to serve.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GROUNDS, Cleveland, May 13.—Uncle Cy Young against his old teammates.

That was the programme when the Red Sox went to bat this afternoon to open the third game of the series.

Old Cy has not been having as good luck this year (perhaps "support" would be the way to spell "luck") as Charlie Chech, for whom, with Ryan and some coin, the veterans were traded to Cleveland last Winter. While Chech has been winning easily the old fellow has been having a hard time to get an even break.

But, however this may be, Manager Lajoie decided to put Young in against the Red Sox as soon as he learned that Manager Lake had decided to pitch Cy Morgan, and the Nap leader counted on the old man to break the winning streak of the Aspesty stage.

Easterly, the cub catcher, who has gone behind the bat for all but one of Young's games, donned the mask to-day. It was the last game of the series. To-night the Boston team will take a steamboat ride on Lake Erie, arriving in Detroit early to-morrow morning to tackle the Tigers in their lair.

SAYS HUSBAND HUGGED RIVAL

While the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Ella Rowe, agent, of Malden, was being heard at East Cambridge, to-day, Miss Nellie Rowe of Everett, just out of her teens, sat in court and heard testimony to the effect that she had admitted being hugged and kissed by Guy F. Menut, the husband and the defendant in the suit.

Mrs. Menut named Miss Rowe in the bill of complaint. In her testimony Mrs. Menut said in part:

"My husband is a director in a paper box factory in Everett. He would meet this girl at the factory nights. I followed them there once. When the girl came out I said to her 'I'll escort you home. What is your name?' She gave me a false name. My husband admitted to me that he had made a fool of himself and asked for another chance."

Patrolman Lonergan testified:

"Miss Rowe admitted to me she was at the factory night with Menut. Menut hugged and kissed her, she said. I said to her 'Aren't you ashamed of yourself?' She said to me 'Yes, I am. I am easily led. This man took my heart.'"

Menut took the stand and admitted that he was at the factory nights with Miss Rowe was there. He said Miss Rowe was working girls at different part of the building.

DOG, JEALOUS OF CAT, BITES WOMAN

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Jealous because the pet cat of his mistress was to have litter, Gip, the pet terrier of Mrs. Anna Bellerata, of No. 712 Green street, savagely attacked her, biting the entire right side of her face. So long as Gip was simply preference at meal time the dog and cat were firm friends, but when Mrs. Bellerata arranged over to feed the cat first the dog with one shove dark leaped at her. Her injuries were dressed to-day at the Methodist Homeopathic Hospital.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, May 13.—With two games against them Bowerman's Doves lined up with the invaders from Cincinnati in the third round of the series today. The Doves have only to-day and to-morrow in which to even up with their opponents and Bowerman has given his boys an extra large dose of pepper in an effort to beat the Cincinnati hopefuls in this game.

The two games that have been played between the Clover and Reds have been batting bees for fair, and the Boston pitchers have proven easy meat for the visitors. The heavy outfield never has had to attract the fans' attention, and in hopes of seeing another swatfest the boys turned out in the Walope street field in good numbers.

Clark Griffith's pitching staff was found their weakened when Pitcher Browne developed a kink in his arm. Frowne was one of the probabilities in to-day's game, but now he will not be worked for some time. Dubec and Mowrey, who have been on the sick list, suffering with colds, are still out of the game. On account of the poor condition of the pitching staff Clark Griffith was at a loss to know who to work, and until the last minute did not make his decision.

WOMEN FIGHT AT CORNER BIER

NEW YORK, May 13.—Thousands women struggled and fought outside Metropolitan Opera House to-day to into the funeral services that were held there for Heinrich Conried.

Some of the women pummelled others in the struggle and fifty police reserves were kept busy separating them. Most of the encounters were caused by women who arrived at the opera house late and tried to force their way into the front of the lines.

The crowds began gathering early in the morning. They formed in front of the opera house from the main entrance on Thirty-ninth street, over to Seventh avenue and back in Fortieth street.

The late arrivals insisted upon crowding up toward the front. Those who insisted upon trying to get ahead of the women who had been waiting for hours to get the opera house became involved in personal encounters.

The body was taken to the opera house following a private ceremony at the late Conried home, No. 65 West Seventy-first street. It was placed on a catafalque in the centre of the stage, and back of it was a floral screen which hid the singers rendering the musical program. Members of the Managers' Association occupied seats on the stage, while the boxes in the auditorium were reserved for the members of the family.

The program consisted of a vocal arrangement of Handel's Largo, by Miss Sparker, director of the choir of the Temple Emmanuel. It was sung by Madam Schumann-Heink and Mr. Martin Bloss. Beethoven's funeral march was played, and a prayer delivered by Rabbi Wise. The Chopin funeral march was played by the orchestra, and an address was given by Professor William Carpenter of Columbia University.

After the ceremony the body was taken to Cypress Hills Cemetery.

A. L. ERLANGER FOR MAYOR OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 13.—A. L. Erlanger, who with is partner, Marc Klaw, controls the major part of the theatrical field this country, and also has a grip on drama abroad, is being seriously considered by the Democratic leaders as a party's candidate for Mayor of Greater New York, it is said to-day.

America's Duty to Armenia Calls for Immediate Action

If Europe Will Not Interfere, Let the United States End These Horrors Alone

They tell us that the crisis in Armenia is passed; that the dead are dead, and that nothing can be done.

But we know that murder in Armenia is only out of breath. Its slaughter of a thousand hecatombs has not sated, but whetted, its thirst. Fire is not satisfied with burning, and of the hate engendered by bigotry there is no end.

What an appalling indictment against Christian civilization is being written with the blood of these Armenian martyrs to the Christian faith! Think of it! In the land where the crucified Saviour lived, and died upon the cross, thousands upon thousands who were induced by the Christian missionaries of other lands to embrace His teachings are daily meeting with death in its most terrible form. And in the last moment of consciousness many of them are frenzied by an agony worse than all the physical torture inflicted on them—the knowledge that their wives and daughters are being carried off to be made the victims of an ignominy worse than a thousand deaths.

And before this orgy of massacre and lust the CHRISTIAN WORLD STANDS AN IMPOTENT, IF NOT AN INDIFFERENT SPECTATOR.

There was a time when the Christian world marshalled its warriors to rescue the Holy City from the domination of the infidel. That was a sentiment. But the fires of fanaticism, now flaming in the land consecrated to Christianity by the great apostle Paul, are emblazoning a duty to every civilization that is worthy the name of Christian.

Men may ignore a SENTIMENT without deserving blame, but no man can shirk a DUTY without incurring dishonor.

The duty of Christian civilization to succor the Christians of Armenia is not to be denied. They are entitled to have placed between them and the Moslem fanatics who are seeking their blood the protecting arm of militant Christianity.

Because their policies and their greed have more sway over their thought than their faith or their sense of righteousness, the Christian Powers of Europe are unmoved to action.

Inspired by the same high and noble purpose which led to our interference in Cuba, our organization of the rescue of the Christian missionaries in China who were beleaguered by the terrible Boxers, and our message to Russia that the slaughter of Jews in the realms of the Czar must cease, the government in Washington should immediately notify the Powers of Europe that America expects them to take steps to end these atrocities in Armenia and punish the murderers, and that, failing to arouse them to a sense of their awful responsibility, the UNITED STATES WILL PROCEED, SINGLY AND ALONE, over any and all protest, to bring to an END THESE HORRORS which have shocked mankind and threatened the very foundations of Christian civilization throughout the world.

The disgrace of delayed action cannot be entirely wiped out; the dead cannot be restored to life, but our appeals to you, President Taft, is to make all the amends now possible for the failure of your administration to play its proper part in this great crisis of the world's history.

Let the nearing strains of the Christian patrol sound terror in frenzied brains of Moslem murderers and send a thrill of hope into the sore afflicted hearts of those who are marked as victims of fanatical fury!

Consumption in Old Packs of Cards

And in New Packs Also. Innocent Card Playing Has Killed Thousands

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

There is room on the tip end of your thumb for enough disease germs to kill a thousand people. Remember that when you play cards.

In a million houses in America you can find old, greasy packs of cards, used day after day. And the backs of the cards are camping grounds for samples of all the microbes that all the members of the family possess among them.

People dealing cards, and children especially, have a habit of moistening the thumb with the lips and then dealing. One member of the family puts his thumb on his lips, then on the backs of the cards, then on the lips again. When the evening of friendly card playing is over, everybody in the family has had an opportunity to collect any possible disease germs lurking in the system of any other member of the family or of any visitor.

Consumption, typhoid and many other diseases MUST BE TAKEN INTO THE SYSTEM. They are not contagious diseases; you can't get consumption as you get smallpox, by simply coming near the patient. Yet, it is not uncommon to have a half dozen deaths from consumption in the same family in one or two generations. A GOOD MANY OF THESE DEATHS HAVE BEEN DUE TO THE FAMILY CARD PLAYING.

The old religious Puritan prejudice against playing cards may have saved many lives, even if it didn't actually save human SOULS. Quite often, when you study religious teachings carefully, you find that those teachings are at least as beneficial physically as they are spiritually. They do as much good to the body as to the soul, or perhaps more.

Everybody knows that the ordinance of the Jewish religion forbidding the use of pork was absolutely necessary when it was issued. Moses issued that order in a semi-tropical country, where there were no ice boxes. He at the same time forbade the eating of oysters—and he saved the lives of millions of Jewish people who, without him, might have died of ptomaine poisoning or trichinosis.

Our good old Puritan objection to card playing saved some of the lives of the faithful beyond question.

Think about this when you play cards; get out of the habit of collecting microbes on the end of your thumb and then swallowing them. It is just as easy to form the habit of not eating microbes as it is to form the habit of putting the germs in your system.

This is especially important to children that often play with grown people. The disease germs perhaps exist in the throat of the grown man or woman. The energy of the grown person keeps down the disease, and it never fully develops. The same germs transferred to the mucous membrane of the child thrive rapidly; many a child undoubtedly has been killed in this way.

Some geese will tell you that there is "nothing in" this germ theory and microbe theory. Other idiots not long ago swore there was no truth in the theory about the world being round.

KEEP OUT DISEASE GERMS AND YOU KEEP OUT DISEASE.

DR. PARKHURST'S ARTICLE

—ON—

"Woman Suffrage" —AND ON— "The Fight for Right"

Written for the American

By DR. C. H. PARKHURST

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

THE recent utterance of the Pope on woman suffrage is such as would be expected from a conservative source.

The address that he made to the delegation of Italian women that visited him at the Vatican carries with it more meaning for the reason that the Catholic Church accords especially high degree of honor to woman, and honors itself by so doing.

Its disposition thus to distinguish the sex and to cherish what it believes to be the proper prerogatives of the sex is doubtless connected in some measure with the prominence which in its cult is given to the Virgin Mary.

It follows almost of necessity from the attitude of devout reverence that it maintains toward one woman that it should interpret with marked degree of sensitiveness and delicacy the true significance of all women and the sphere within which feminine activities should find their exercise.

While not making the Virgin an object of Protestant worship, it would be perhaps to the enrichment of Protestant thought and religion if with somewhat more of distinctness it recognized in the divine character the existence of feminine qualities.

To Protestants, God is almost exclusively masculine, but people want a divine mother as well as a divine father, and a deified Virgin in a way meets this craving.

This attitude of the Catholic mind must be made account of in the position it assumes toward questions involving feminine adaptations, rights and privileges. It helps to explain that position.

Women at the Spring of Social and Family Life

We can see in part why it is that that Church emphasizes woman in her distinct character of femininity, and why it tends, therefore, to hold woman's activities more closely within distinctively feminine limitations.

Those who regret what seems to some to be the rather masculine aggressiveness of certain members of her sex feel that in this matter the Catholic Church, as it has just voiced itself through the Pope, is rendering good service.

It is therefore natural to go on and say that there is no class of women that with a more beautiful spirit of motherly and sisterly ministration care for the poor and the sick than do Catholic women.

Much of the power of that church lies in the quiet womanly service which they untiringly render. They work at the hidden springs of social and family life.

There is nothing demonstrative in the activities of mercy and of healing in which they engage, but it is all a part of the still-working engineery by which the life and progress of that communion are maintained.

They are not often heard in public places. They do not advertise themselves. In dress and demeanor they shrink from public gaze and public remark rather than court it.

Thunder makes a great deal of noise, but it is not one of the things that make trees grow and flowers bloom. That is best done by the sunshine which works with beautiful effect but makes no clatter.

Should Be Eager to Fight the Battle

In the correspondence column of the AMERICAN there recently appeared a letter, most kindly in its intention but in which was one glaring defect, that should receive a word of generous criticism.

That letter contained the following paragraph, written in commendation of one who had been attempting to render some public service: "We ought to be glad that there is a strong, steady-of-nerve champion, who gives us more confidence of victory while he battles for us and we look on."

Now these last four words are a decided anti-climax. We should have supposed that one who had such an appreciation of "strong, steady-of-nerve" people, and who had such a passionate longing for "victory," instead of winding up the sentence with such a lackadaisical phrase as "and we look on," would have written in its place something like this: "and we enlist under his standard and share with him the perils and the joys of the conflict."

That would have been something like! What is the use of sounding the bugle call, to battle if those within reach of the ringing bouquets to the bugler in recognition of the skill with which he can finger its keys?

Many Admire Leaders; Few Enlist Under Them

What is the advantage in a general leaping upon his horse and plunging into the ranks of the enemy, if the crowd he leaves behind creep behind the trees and in sagacious security lay out their patriotism in applauding the horsemanship and prowess of their leader?

Generals cannot win battles. The first and principal office of a general is to set the pace.

A general is something like a precentor. Sometimes the precentor sings—sometimes not, but whether tuneful or dumb his principal duty is to beat time for the chorus, and a queer kind of chorus it would be that should sit round and entertain itself watching him mark off the beats.

Indispensable as good generalship may be, battles are not won by the man who wears the most gold lace, but by the prowess of the rank and file.

It is because there are too few that are ready to recruit for common soldier service, too many who, like the writer of the quoted letter, admire leaders and are fascinated by the roll of the drum and the blare of the trumpet, but who had rather "look on" than buckle on their knapsack and shoulder their gun.

LONG SENTENCE FOR SOLDIERS

Four privates in the Eighty-ninth Company of United States Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Banks in Winthrop, were arraigned before Judge Clary in the East Boston District Court to-day on complaints made by Patrolman Bailey, and three of them were sentenced to the House of Correction.

The policeman said that on Monday he arrested William J. Coffey and James Feeney for drunkenness on Marginal street, near the Revere Beach & Lynn Road terminal, and that while he was taking them to the patrol box Patrick Greeley and John A. Carroll attacked him from behind. The policeman says he was kicked and struck and he showed the marks of a fight. Coffey and Feeney got away, but the policemen caught Coffey after a chase and arrested the others later on warrants.

Coffey appealed and was held in $200, after he had been sentenced to two months for drunkenness. Feeney, charged with drunkenness, with a $10 fine, hereby was sentenced to the three months for assaulting a policeman, and to one month more for resisting policemen. Carroll was sentenced to six months for assault and to six months more for resisting the two comrades. Greeley and Carroll both appealed. The former was held in $1000 and the latter in $1,000.

THROWN IN RUNAWAY; STRIKES ON HIS HEAD

WAKEFIELD, May 12.—A runaway horse attached to a rubber tired runabout endangered the lives of a score of persons on North avenue to-day and nearly killed driver Frederick Smith, sixty years old of Avon street, Melrose Highlands. The runabout was demolished. The horse frightened by an automobile, kicked and bolted. At West Water street the animal was going at full speed on a hydrant, driver Smith was thrown out at this point, striking on his head. He was attended by Dr. Charles Jordan. John T. Barton stopped the horse.

MACHINE HITS AUTO COUNSEL

Francis Hurtubis, Jr., employed to defend owners and drivers of automobiles who are arrested for violations of the speed laws, who is at the State House in the interest of automobile legislation, and who was formerly secretary to Governor Bates, was to-day the victim of an automobile accident in which he was badly injured.

While making a dash for a car from his Marlboro street residence, he ran into an automobile with such force that he forced his right hand through the thick glass of one of the headlights. His hand and wrist were badly cut.

The accident occurred at the corner of Marlboro street and Massachusetts avenue. Mr. Hurtubis was dodging a coal team in front of the car when he was struck. The driver of the coal team is attempting to save Mr. Hurtubis threw one of his horses to the pavement.

The auto is owned by Robert W. Williamson of No. 240 Highland street, West Newton. It was being driven by Fred Welsont.

Mr. Hurtubis was taken to his home and attended by Dr. Thomas F. Allen. A short time after the physician arrived a trained nurse was summoned to care for the injured man.

STRAW HATS MAKE THEIR SUMMER BOW

Summer has came. Straw hats are out. To-day is the 13th, too.

Straw hats have been in store windows for several days, but to-day was the first venture on wearing them, so far as recorded. At 12:15 this noon two up-to-date appearing youths came jauntily down Summer street past the BOSTON AMERICAN office both wearing straw hats. One wore a "lid," the other a Panama. Both looked happy. They attracted considerable attention. Several men, on seeing them, were noticed going into hat stores. The example looked good to them.

It is pure! The sealed lead packets of "Salada" guarantee you free from all foreign substances. At your grocer's.

Porto Rico in Rage Over Taft's Charges.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico.—President Taft's message to Congress on Porto Rico has had the effect of a bombshell here. Its sweeping condemnation arouses resentment, and strong protests are made against the charges of unfitness and ingratitude. It is pointed out that the storm raised in Washington was caused solely by the Unionist party, which controls the House of Assembly. The other political elements oppose the action of the Unionists. It is charged that the pernicious power of the Unionists was built up by favor of Governors Winthrop and Post.

Lost $700,000 by Fraud.

LONDON.—Executors of the estate of the late C. J. Dickins, founder of Dickins & Jones, are suing a dealer named Arthur Ellis, alleging that while Mr. Dickins was suffering from senile decay, Ellis defrauded him out of thousands of pounds by palming off on him spurious modern China ware for Dresden ware, alleged to be 150 years old. It is charged Mr. Dickins had been defrauded out of over $700,000 by merchants.

Fear Uprising in Portugal.

LISBON.—The government has made a number of political arrests, searched the houses of various suspects and adopted precautions. The arrests are attributed to the discovery of a plot for the overthrow of a Republican demonstration to take advantage of the political anarchy in Parliament. The local garrison is under arms.

Kaiser in Collision.

ROME.—The Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, having the Kaiser on board, was in collision at Brindisi, where the Emperor had gone to meet King Victor Emmanuel, with the Italian destroyer Nembo. The Hohenzollern struck the destroyer, which sprang aleak. The Kaiser apologized to the King.

New Minister From Spain.

LONDON.—Marquis de Villalobos will go to Washington as Spanish minister. For several years he has been counsellor of the Spanish embassy here. He is a great favorite of King Edward and of society. The present American minister will join the Spanish cabinet.

Cuban Lottery Bill Passes.

HAVANA.—The House of Representatives approved the lottery bill in its entirety, the vote standing 62 in favor of the measure to 20 against it. The House will vote upon separately on the thirty-nine clauses of the bill.

Nationalist Bar Out Healey.

LONDON.—The Nationalist members of the House of Commons have adopted a resolution, proposed by John E. Redmond, declining to admit Maurice Healey to membership in the party. Maurice Healey is a brother of Timothy Healey.

Would Stop Leopold's Art Sale.

BRUSSELS.—Deputy Vandervelde has asked the Belgian Government to take steps to prevent King Leopold from selling in Paris his celebrated collection of paintings, which includes a number of Van Dykes.

Worth Less Than Million.

LONDON.—The will of Lily, Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Mrs. Louis Hammersley of New York, shows her estate to be worth $901,700. She had only an interest in the Hammersley millions.

General Stoessel Stricken.

ST. PETERSBURG.—General Stoessel, condemned to death for surrendering Port Arthur, was stricken with apoplexy when he learned that the Czar had denied him a pardon.

SUITS FOR $45,000 AFTER CAR CRASH

Five suits asking in the aggregate for $45,000 damages were filed in the Superior court to-day against the Boston & Northern railroad. They were brought by passengers in the Boston Elevated car which was rammed in Linden square, Malden, on March 1 last, by a Boston & Northern car. The plaintiffs and the amounts they sue for: Miss Marion H. Howlett of Malden, $15,000; John M. Cheney of Malden, $5,000; William W. Howlett of Malden, $5,000; Florence J. Dickenson of Malden, a minor, $15,000, and her father, Clemetson Dickinson $5,000. In the suits for loss of his daughter's services and the medical expenses to which he has put.

"DAUGHTERS" ON LONG AUTO TOUR

Delegates to the conference of the Daughters of the Revolution toured the North Shore to-day in limousines as guests of the local members. Starting from Lynn shortly after 10 o'clock they went to Revere Beach, came back to Lynn and went over to the estate of Senator Lodge on East Point, Nahant. From there they went to the home of Mrs. Sarah Wells Smith on Atlantic avenue, Swampscott, for a rest. Continuing they circled Marblehead Neck and arrived at the Tedesco Club, Swampscott, for luncheon. The trip concluded with a run down Ocean street, Swampscott, to Market square, Lynn, where they took the train for Boston.

Melrose Prima Donna and Her Fiance, Scotti

COPYRIGHT BY AIME DUPONT

Miss Geraldine Farrar is here shown as Mme. Butterfly in Puccini's opera, with the baby which she was accused by roughly handling in a performance in Pittsburg because the infant fretted during one of her solos.

'SCOTTI, AS 'SCARPIA'

$34,000 LOAN DELAYS FARRAR WEDDING PLAN

Right on the heels of the announcement of Miss Geraldine Farrar, native of Melrose, and world-famous prima donna, to Signor Antonio Scotti, the famous baritone, comes explanation of the real reason why the attachement between the two has been so persistently denied.

Miss Farrar insisted that there should be no formal engagement until, like the high-spirited American she is, she had paid off the last cent of her $34,000 debt to Miss Lucy Ware Webb, of Salem, her patron and benefactor.

The story was told a month ago how Miss Farrar had paid the last installment of this loan advanced by Mrs. Webb for her musical training.

Wedding Next Month.

This week Miss Farrar and Scotti sailed from New York for Europe on the same liner. Wireless messages gave news of a formal engagement, with the definite information that the wedding would take place in June, the bridal month, in the beautiful Church of the Madeline in Paris.

Ever since last August it has been persistently reported that Miss Farrar and Scotti were engaged. The first report was refuted from Berlin, where Scotti was singing. It was promptly denied by Miss Farrar.

When the fair singer came back to New York last Fall the first thing she was asked at the dock was, "Are you going to wed Scotti?"

"Absurd!" said Miss Farrar.

"Ermpossible!" cried Scotti, who was nearby. But the report would not down. There seemed to be foundation in plenty for it. The two were constantly together, Scotti was in gallant attendance on Miss Farrar at every opportunity. Her photographs, several of them, adorned his room in the Knickerbocker Hotel during all the last Metropolitan opera season in New York. Miss Farrar had another suite in the same hotel, as did various other members of the Metropolitan company.

Scotti Proclaims His Love.

Often Scotti and Miss Farrar occupied the same table in the dining room. Scotti finally made no bones about his attachment to the beautiful young singer. But still Miss Farrar said she was not engaged.

The reason for all this denial, the AMERICAN learned exclusively today, was Miss Farrar's desire to pay off her indebtedness to Mrs. Webb without her brother troubling herself.

Scotti even pleaded with her to let him advance her the money and then announce the betrothal, but Miss Farrar firmly denied him this fond privilege.

She wishes to be secure with the world" before getting engaged. She paid the Webb account in full last month. Then the way was clear for Dan Cupid.

BIG HUNT FOR HARVARD MAN

A general alarm sent to all police departments here to New York has failed to locate Thomas P. Williams, the 21-year-old Harvard Freshman, who broke from captivity ten days ago, and has not been seen since Monday night. It is on the belief of his relatives that the young man, with weakened mind, is wandering somewhere in Connecticut.

Young Williams lived at No. 630 Oxford street, Cambridge. His family is a New York one. Following his breakdown he went to the home of his uncle, David Williams, at Bethel, Ct., to rest and recuperate.

He was last seen driving in the direction of Reading, Ct. His uncle missed him a short time after his disappearance and followed in a team. He was able to trace him as far as the Reading Railway station, but at that point all trace of him was lost. The uncle wired to his family in New York. They had not heard from the missing youth.

ARE YOU ARTIFICIAL OR SINCERE? The famous essayist, Gilbert K. Chesterton, explains in the SUNDAY AMERICAN the difference between these two characteristics.

THROWS MAN INTO CHARLES

Joseph S. Skurman of No. 29 Billerica street, West End, was walking across the Craigie Bridge on his way to work this morning on a river dredger. He was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital, not much the worse for his experience.

The Cambridge police and police were notified and looked for the stranger who threw Skurman overboard. Up to the present time they have not found him. There was no one on the bridge at the time except Skurman, the milkman and the stranger. In the rush to get Skurman out of the water the stranger had good time to escape.

PLOT TO KILL DIAZ EXPOSED

BISBEE, Ariz., May 13.—Disclosures which it is believed will result in Mexico placing an armed force along the border to guard Cananea and Nagles, towns within a hundred miles of here, were made before the federal grand jury called at Tombstone during the investigation of the case of the three alleged Mexican revolutionists who were arrested about a year and a half ago on Magon, who was the leader, and Villareal and Rivera, his closest associates, planned the seizure, according to letters read before the grand jury of 2,000 rifles at Cananea. With these rifles they were to march to Nogales and capture the town. At Nogales they intended to enlarge the scope of their military activity and secretly send special agents to Mexico City. According to the letters Diaz was to be assassinated, and all the higher rulers of the Republic put to death.

Their one great fear was from interference on the part of the United States.

$5,000 BULLDOG ARRIVES.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The highest priced bulldog in the world arrived in New York today on the liner Teutonic. The animal is named Clinsham Young Jack, and it was bought in Ireland by J. Cooper Mott of Great Neck, L. I., for $5,250. It has won 500 blue ribbons.

CAPTAIN STANDS BY SHIP BREAKING UP

ROCKPORT, Mass., May 13.—Mistaying off Cape Ann, the three-masted schooner Henry Withington, bound light from Bay View to this harbor, ran ashore on the north side of Milk Island early today in a precarious position. Captain Bearse and crew of the Gap Cove life-saving station went out to the vessel and took off the crew of six men.

Captain Davis and the mate decided to stay by the ship through the night and an attempt to get her off will be made this tide today.

The schooner is about two miles from this harbor and according to Captain Bearse of the life saving station, there is little chance of getting her off the rocks.

CAVE DWELLER IN NEWTON ARRESTED

Robert H. Allen, sixty years, was arrested while asleep in a natural cave formed by boulders in a fringe of woods off Parker street in the outskirts of Newton Centre. Residents of the vicinity declare that Allen has been making his home in the cave for several days past. To the police he stated that he has no home other than the rocky dwelling.

ARE AMERICANS BARBARIANS?

Professor Ferrero in an article to the SUNDAY AMERICAN says we are not and tells why. His criticism of our social customs is wonderfully interesting.

QUAKE SHAKES MARYLAND.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—A distant earthquake has been reported by the United States coast and geodetic survey observer at Cheltenham, Md. The tremors lasted thirty-two minutes. The record was of small amplitude.

SEEK TO FIX SIGNATURE OF M'CULLOUGH

As the trial of Leo F. McCullough, former president of the Common Council, and Attorney James T. Cassidy for alleged conspiracy to defraud the city in the purchase of a $200 set of books proceeded to-day before Judge Schofield in the Suffolk Superior Criminal Court the prosecution made determined efforts to secure identification of McCullough's signature.

Patrick Fahey, clerk in the office of the City Treasurer, described the routine through which a check from the City Auditor's office comes before being paid.

E. B. Cushing, teller in the Treasurer's office, produced his books and showed an entry which corresponded with the ticket which Mr. Cassidy is alleged to have presented and been paid the sum of $200. "There is nothing on my books to indicate to whom the money was paid or for what it was paid," Mr. Cushing testified, "and I have no especial recollection of the payment."

"Have you any knowledge of McCullough's signature" asked District Attorney Hill.

"Yes, when he was acting Mayor he signed several special drafts which I saw," replied Cushing.

Q.—Now I ask you to look at that signature and tell me if you know whether it is Mr. McCullough's? (Handing him a bill.) A.—It resembles it. I believe it is his signature.

Q.—Do you know James T. Cassidy?

Lawyers in Clash.

A.—Yes. I have known him for four or five years.

Q.—If I came into your office and presented a check from the city auditor's office bearing the name of James T. Cassidy would you pay the money to me? A.—No.

Preceding this there was a verbal fight between Attorney John T. Feeney and District Attorney Hill.

Maurice H. Cole, a clerk in the city auditor's office, identified two signatures, one on a check and one on a bill, as those of McCullough and Cassidy. Then District Attorney Hill asked: "Do you know Mr. McCullough's signature?"

Attorney Feeney objected to the question, saying: "Your honor, it is a mighty important point to McCullough. The whole case at the last trial rested on Mr. Cole's testimony on this point. I object to the witness answering the question without being further qualified to answer."

District Attorney Hill said: "I wish to call your honor's attention to the gross impropriety of Mr. Feeney's statement that the whole case rested on this point at the last trial. It is not true. If never was true, and it is very improper for him to make such a statement. I ask that his remarks be stricken from the record."

Judge Denies Motion.

With flaming face Attorney Feeney sprang to his feet and said: "There was no gross impropriety on my part, and I don't propose to have the District Attorney say that there was. I want to have his remarks stricken from the record."

Judge Schofield leaned forward and, striking his desk with his hand, said: "This discussion stops right here."

"Do I understand," Attorney Feeney asked the judge, "that the District Attorney is allowed to say I used gross impropriety?"

"Mr. Feeney!" exclaimed the judge, holding up his hand.

"I desire to make a motion," continued Attorney Feeney, "I move that the remark of the District Attorney, that I used gross impropriety be stricken from the record."

"Motion denied," said Judge Schofield calmly.

SLAIN MISSIONARIES WILL BE AVENGED

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 13.—The thousands of Christians who perished in the recent massacres in the Adana district are to be avenged. The new Turkish Government, spurred by the protests of the powers, is assembling an army of 30,000 men at Dedeagatch, which as soon as mobilized will be shipped to Mersina as a punitive expedition against the Kurdish tribes by whom the Armenian Christians were put to the sword. Reprisals upon the semi-savage tribesmen will be quick and stern. The war will be carried into their own territory, and unless the leaders in the atrocities are surrendered for punishment heavy toll will be taken of the villages. Some sharp fighting is likely to result, as the Kurds are natural warriors, but their defeat by the organized army, equipped with the latest of modern arms, is a foregone conclusion. The Turkish Government feels that to establish itself in the eyes of civilization stern punishment must be meted out to the inhuman tribesmen.

HARTFORD BARS EMMA GOLDMAN

NEW HAVEN, May 13.—Dr. Bea Reitman, advance agent for Emma Goldman, applied to Chief of Police Cowles for a license for Miss Goldman to deliver two lectures in this city Friday and Saturday nights.

"You can't get a license for her and she can't speak in this city," said the chief.

"Why not?" inquired Reitman.

"Because I don't think she is a fit person to speak here and you can't have the license," answered the chief.

Away from the chief Dr. Reitman said: "He's an arrogant fellow. He knows no more about anarchy than he does about the geographical location of hell."

COW ON A JAUNT VISITS SHOE SHOP

A cow which became separated from a drove passing through Harvard square caused a good deal of excitement to-day, visiting several stores, followed by a large and enthusiastic crowd. Her absence was not noticed by the drovers. Cutter's shoe store was the first place where bossy called. She looked in the door and said "Moo-o-o!" The clerk, who was waiting on a customer, turned in surprise and said "Shoo!" This sounded like an invitation and the cow walked in. The clerk climbed a ladder standing against the wall. The customer, who was a woman, being unable to climb, hopped about with one shoe off. The cow, disappointed in her welcome, strolled out. She was finally taken in charge by the police.

TAFT TARIFF VETO FEARED BY ALDRICH

WASHINGTON, May 13.—A revisionist who had grown impatient under Mr. Taft's silence yesterday went down to the White House and said:

"Mr. President, every member of the House and Senate organization men and insurgents alike, is saying these days that you will sign any sort of tariff bill that is sent you, whether it is an honest revision downward or not."

"Senator Aldrich doesn't think so," is the reply the revisionist says he received from Mr. Taft.

The revisionist came back to the Capitol and told some of his associates how his news was received: "He didn't get angry. He didn't even look surprised. He just looked straight at me with his big honest gray eyes and said: 'Senator Aldrich does not think so.' We must have interpreted his present silence wrongly."

It is this tale and others like it that have brought into being the new note of optimism which is just beginning to be heard in predictions as to what will be the final form of the tariff law now framing. Senators who have been handling the bill with Mr. Aldrich and largely in his confidence are now predicting that notable revisions downward will be made before the new tariff law leaves Congress.

The metal schedule was taken up in the Senate tariff debate to-day.

Senator Burrows opposed the removal of the duty on iron ore, which is now 40 cents a ton. The House bill makes it free, while the Senate imposes a duty of 25 cents a ton. Senator Burrows said the removal of the duty would mean a loss of revenue annually of $952,000 and a very material loss to the iron ore industry.

Senator Tillman offered an amendment to the tariff bill to put a duty of 10 cents a pound on tea in the interest of tea culture, which is an infant industry in South Carolina.

RADICALS LOSE IN EPISCOPAL CHURCH MOVE

The Episcopal Church Congress will not indorse Christian unity, its executive committee having voted it down to-day. This means that those who do not belong to the Episcopal Church cannot be speakers or writers at the future church congresses.

This has been the rule in the past, but the more radical churchmen presented an amendment this year which would allow members of all Christian bodies to take part. This has now been defeated, but may be presented another year.

"These people of the East couldn't invent a mouse trap."

So said the Rev. C. George Currie, D.D., of London, at the meeting in Tremont Temple to-day, when "The Possible Contribution of Oriental Thought to Present Day Christianity" was being discussed.

They are metaphysical, even a much as a Scotchman. The people haven't got any concrete. The Western mind is unquestionably invading the East, so that it is no longer carrying on its back a mere lifeless body. There is red blood all over it and it is perfectly marvelous how the Christian ideas have been rising up among these people.

On the other hand, the East is to some extent learning the West, if don't want too much of it. The Lord deliver us from an absolute Asiatic civilization.

"They are doubting about their souls, and yet there is eagerness to go to spirit or table rapping. All true enough, it may be, and may be called wonderful spiritual forces of a lower sort.

"The common divine life runs through all these people of the East, and they are God's people, as you are. Each receives the divine life according to his degree of development, and these various races and their belief are in their degree under the direction of the "King of Kings."

IN HIDING TO ESCAPE FATE OF PETROSINO

NEW YORK, May 13.—William H. Bishop, American Consul at Palermo, Sicily, who was threatened with death just after the assassination of Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino in the streets of Palermo, is now in this city. He is not telling his abiding place, for it seems desirable on more than one account that members of the Black Hand in New York should not learn of his whereabouts.

Mr. Bishop has received two letters warning him that unless he ceases loading a hand in the search for Lieutenant Petrosino's assassins and in the deportation of several of the notorious Italian blackmailers now in this country he will meet the fate which befell Commissioner Bingham's special agent.

From the time the first warning letter was received until he was safely on his way to this country Mr. Bishop was under the constant surveillance of two Italian detectives. They even went on board the Cunard liner Carpathia with the Consul and his wife and remained until the vessel cleared Palermo.

perched on the wagon seat, and made up his mind to go home.

Not Clear About Time.

"I thought," he added, "that I caught the next car back until the police told me I missed that one and rode back on the next after that. I don't know just how long I sat on the wagon.

"I went around the barn and found a couple of sheets I wanted to take home, bed sheets which I had used when I slept in the watchman's bed in the barn. I meant to bring them home before, but forgot them.

"How did you get those sheets if you could not get into the barn?"

"Oh, I had put them away to take the other time when I forgot them. They were in a box where I could get them, outside. I took the bundle with me to the car."

"If you caught the next car back after the one on which you arrived you must have passed that girl in the lane, or just outside on the avenue."

He looked thoughtful for a moment, and said:

"If she was in the lane I must have passed her four times; when I went out there just after 9 o'clock to the ice barn, when I left to go to the car, when I came back in the morning and when I took my cart out. When I reached the lane to go home I saw the car standing at the end of the track. If I fell asleep while I was down the lane, it seems funny."

"Did you see anybody getting off that car?"

"No."

"Did you pass anybody between the lane and the car?"

"Not as I noticed; couldn't say yes or no, but one thing is sure, I didn't notice anybody in the lane."

Didn't See Anyone."

He was told that Robert Hinton and Miss Blechel got off the 10 o'clock car and walked up to the cemetery and that two other couples left the car at the same time, but went in other directions. Again Johanson was asked if he did not see any of these people. He said "No."

"Isn't the avenue well lighted between the lane and the car?"

"Not very well; not very well."

"Is there not a light between the gate and the watering-trough and another at the latter point?"

"I don't know." Then he added: "Oh, it's pretty well lighted on Reservoir avenue, down by the car."

"Was there any other passenger on the car with you?"

"I don't know; I didn't notice. I rode direct through and felt sleepy and I didn't know that I got by my street until I was down by Burke's place at Davis Park."

Johanson said that after remaining a home a short time he returned to the ice houses on the last car from Smith's Hill and remained there until he went out on his route early in the morning.

"Mr. Johanson," interposed the interviewer, "you were in that lane about 9:20 o'clock and you didn't leave it until you went out to catch that car which left at 10 o'clock?"

"Yes," he answered.

"You didn't hear any noise or see anybody in the lane?"

"No, I did not see anybody or hear any noise at all, and if I fell asleep I think it was funny."

"Where was the wagon on which you were seated?"

He replied that it was between the barn and the blacksmith shop.

Johanson was asked if there was anything to obstruct his seeing or hearing anybody in the lane or behind the cemetery, and he replied:

"I don't know. I didn't see anybody or hear any noise."

Blame Jealousy for Crime.

The belief of those who have studied the case and those who knew the girl intimately is that jealousy was the impelling motive in the commission of the crime. The fact that the girl's cameo ring, her bracelet and her pocketbook, containing only a little change, were taken, is not regarded as indicating that the girl was attacked with a motive for robbery.

The detectives who have worked on the the case believe that the man who killed Miss Regester knew her intimately, knew that she was coming home on the first car on Monday night and lay in the window of the cemetery trees in wait for her.

That Douglass had a rival whom Miss Regester feared was shown by the story told to-day by Mrs. Annie Jordan.

"I knew Miss Regester well," said Jordan, "I saw her on Monday, the day she met her death. I know that she wore her cameo ring at that time for I saw it on her finger. She and I talked confidentially many times.

"She was a home-loving girl. She did not go out much. That she might have had an appointment at ten o'clock and such a time is preposterous. Whoever killed her lay in wait for her. She was in love with Douglass and had no thought for any other man. She told me that the secretary of her former husband had passed entirely away. She never thought of him unless he was recalled to her attention by some one.

"She told me about the attentions of a traveling man and told me his name. She said that he was a stranger to her. He had called on her some time ago. I told her that I thought she ought to give him up and she said she had done so, but that she was afraid that he would make trouble for her."

It has been definitely established that the murderer was a man of powerful physique, and from the signs of a struggle that were present in the neighborhood of the body, it is considered certain that the slayer must have been in a paroxysm of rage.

Lillian Regester, sister of the murdered woman, told the police to-day that Laura's life had been threatened several times and that but a few days before the tragedy her sister said she would be lucky if she escaped being killed before her marriage, which was to have taken place in about a month.

The funeral of Miss Regester was held to-day from the undertaking rooms of G. O. Chase, No. 700 Westminster street. The body was seen only by members of the family and most immediate friends of the young woman, the entire proceedings being of the most private nature.

Services were held at the Church of the Epiphany, Potter avenue, the Rev. Mr. Bassett conducting the ceremony.

SCENE OF CRIME REVEALED FIERCE STRUGGLE FOR LIFE

The BOSTON AMERICAN prints to-day a panoramic view of the scene of the brutal murder of Laura E. Regester. This panorama is so comprehensive and clear that any person by studying it may obtain as clear an understanding of the known facts in the tragedy as he could obtain by making a personal investigation of the scene of the crime itself. The point where Miss Regester got off the car at 9:41 on Monday night on her way home from a dressmaker's is shown at the left of the picture. From there it was about a five minutes' walk to her home, shown at the right of the photograph.

Murder Was Waiting.

She started along the street toward her home and passed the blacksmith shop, in front of which an arc light gleamed, the only light in the neighborhood. As she advanced toward her home her way became darker. She had gone about 200 yards and had reached the point that leads to the Sherwood Ice Company's plant, just at the edge of the Jewish cemetery, when she was attacked by some one who apparently was in wait for her behind the lone gate in the shadow of the cemetery trees.

Just as she entered the gate she probably was seized by the wrists because her gloves fell near the gateposts as they dropped from her hand. These also her umbrella and comb were found, as indicated by the picture.

There there is a trail in the soft sward, which bears record of an attack and a desperate effort on the girl's part to save herself. The imprint of a man's shoes and the less noticeable marks of the girl's slippers were seen in the ground.

Weak from Fighting.

Fighting with all her strength as the man dragged her further within the lane, the girl's combs and hairpins were torn from her head a dozen yards from the gate. That her strength was ebbing was seen by the less distinct marks in the sward as her assailant overpowered her, dragged her carried her around the corner of the fence bordering the cemetery, where the girl made a last stand.

Obviously she was fighting with an umbrella, which was found broken and torn nearby. A few yards farther on the girl fell, at the point shown in the photograph. Her assailant continued his attack, the nature of the wounds indicating that he gripped the girl's neck as she lay stunned or unconscious, sinking his powerful fingers into her throat until the carotid ligaments were torn and suffocation brought death.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Thousands Have Kidney Disease and Do Not Know It.

Mr. Guy C. Clarkson, of Tampa, Fla., who suffered from Kidney Disease for some time, says he was much benefited by Warner's Safe Cure and Safe Pills.

On Dec. 5, 1908, Mr. Clarkson wrote: "I suffered from kidney and liver troubles and received no aid until I took Warner's Safe Cure and the Safe Pills. I was greatly benefited by these and heartily recommend Warner's Safe Cure and Safe Pills to all who suffer from kidney and liver disease."

Safe Cure is the only absolutely safe and certain cure for all these forms of kidney, liver and bladder diseases. It is purely vegetable, free from harmful drugs found in many so-called kidney cures, contains no sediment and is pleasant to take.

For sale at all drug stores, 50c. and $1.00 a bottle.

Refuse substitutes and imitations. They are worthless and very often exceedingly dangerous.

NEW YORK WOMEN HAVE SMALL HANDS

NEW YORK, May 13.—According to the testimony of Thomas Hall, a wealthy silk manufacturer, in a suit for breach of damage suit before Judge Vail and a jury in Jersey City, Chicago and St. Louis women have much larger hands than the women of New York. Mr. Hall among other articles, manufactures gloves.

"In shipping gloves to St. Louis and Chicago," said Mr. Hall, "if the sizes are not specified, I always send the largest sizes. In making a shipment to New York, even though, I send the smaller sizes."

Then, naked one of the counsel, "the women of Chicago and St. Louis have larger hands than the women of New York?"

"So I would seem," replied Mr. Hall.

REMOVE TONSILS IN WAR ON PLAGUE

CHICAGO, May 13.—Removal of the tonsils of every one subject to tuberculosis is advocated by physicians attending the fifty-fourth annual convention of the Illinois Homeopathic Medical Association. One doctor described tonsils as "things good for breeding microbes." Another declared that no one for years has been found, and the agreement was general that their removal checked incipient tuberculosis. "Twelve per cent. of the children examined recently," said Richard H. Street, "were found infected with incipient tuberculosis. When the tonsils of these children were removed there was complete recovery."

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

ST. JOHN'S FLOOD DESTROYS A BRIDGE

VAN BUREN, Me., May 12.—At St. John River was on a rampage and continued to cause damage to-day, owing to the heavy rainfall the past week. The suspension bridge across the river between Van Buren, Me., and Clair, N. B., was carried away to-day. This was 100 feet long and cost $14,000. The river was so badly swollen by a six-foot rise that the ferryman along this section refused to transport teams. The nearest bridge over which teams might be driven is Grand Rapids, St. B., 100 miles from here.

Parents of the children candidates for the AMERICAN great vacation tours are beginning to realize the tremendous amount of assistance they can give them.

This is particularly the case with Mrs. C. S. Hald, of No. 78 Perry street, Brookline, who is assisting her daughter Elvina, winner of two gold prizes. Mrs. Hald has made a house on house canvass in her town, has enlisted the support of her trades people, doctors, lawyers, the iceman, milk man, grocery man, letter carrier and painters. Mrs. Hald and her daughter are making a hard and vigorous fight for one of the European Tour prizes and will continue to work until the battle is finished.

Wallace E. Wentworth, of No. 104 Chatham street, Lynn, is spreading broadcast in his native city and various parts of New England, postal cards announcing himself as a Navy Yard Candidate and asking the support of his friends. He is a hard worker and means to win.

In Stoughton, Mass., there is a bright candidate in the person of Miss Nellie Connor, of No. 97 Park street. Miss Connor is using every effort to place her name among the leaders when the final count is made. She is devoting all of her spare time to subscription getting and is confident she will be among the leaders at the finish.

Merle D. Penney, of No. 109 Walnut avenue, Revere, is also a Navy Yard Candidate, his father being sub-inspector of the machinery there. He has just been promised in addition the support of the Bath, Me., Iron Works through his uncle, and aims for leadership in the race.

A letter comes today from Eugene H. Cutler, Jr., of Lebanon, N. H., commending Leo Hughes of No. 777 Columbia Road, for his wisdom in entering the contest and offering his support and those of his friends in behalf of the Fireman's Candidate, saying that all the Lebanon firemen are interested.

CZAR TO AID NEW ENGLAND BOY RACERS

FIVE new ocean steamships are to be placed in commission between Vladivostock and Japan this season. This has been decided by the Russian government.

That will be welcome news to the schoolboys who are to race around the world during the Summer vacation at the expense of the BOSTON AMERICAN. With increased facilities for crossing the Japan Sea the boys are almost sure to see the globe-circling mark so low that it will stand for years. That is one place where Fitzmorris, the title holder, almost lost all chances of making the sixty-day record. Only through sheer luck in securing a steamer that had put into Vladivostock for repairs was he able to get across the sea in time to make connections at Yokohama for the trans-Pacific leg of the long journey.

All arrangements for the European tours by the girls have been completed. Everything that money can procure in the way of comfort and luxury has been considered in the plans for these European Tours, embracing luxurious traveling accommodations, drives, hotels, side tours and all that goes to make a perfect journey.

The itinerary of the American Tours has also been completed, and a description of them as well as the European Tours will be found in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN. Automobile and carriage drives, side trips on steamers, gondolas and other methods of transportation will figure in the itineraries.

Next Sunday will also appear, for the first time, a list of the contestants showing their standing up to Tuesday night, and hereafter the records will be open to inspection. Each boy and girl will be at liberty at any time to see his or her own record, provided they come to the Around-the-World Department properly identified.

Read the news in connection with the Around-the-World Tours next Sunday. Read every bit of it, for it is all vitally interesting and applies particularly to each one of you.

The value of the subscription getting cannot be impressed too highly. That is what will win. Boys and girls, get after them. The possibilities of this plan are tremendous and unlimited. You have just started in the second month of voting and it should be your aim to make it a banner month, to poll a larger vote than you did last month, to keep up the high standard you have set.

Above all get after your friends and ask them to get after their friends. In this way you will establish an endless chain of assistance and as it grows your chances of winning will grow proportionately. Get after the subscriptions. Get after them hard. Get after them constantly. Get after them. You'll win. You must. You CAN'T LOSE.

LOST WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER

CONCORD, N. H., May 13.—The body of Mrs. Mary Jane Cranshaw, aged fifty-two years, has been found floating in the Contoocook River, about two miles from the village. Mrs. Cranshaw lived on Summit street. She left her home Tuesday afternoon, and was last seen two hours later. Her disappearance was reported to the police here, and in response to an alarm sounded on the Penacook fire bells a large force of citizens was organized, which took up the search. It is believed that while walking along the banks of the river she was blown into the water.

ARLINGTON BELLE COLORADO BRIDE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., May 13.—Miss Helen Crosby Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wood of Arlington, Mass., and Dunbar F. Carpenter of Colorado Springs were married in the romantic Adams cottage on the eastern slopes of Cheyenne Mountain. Rev. Arthur N. Taft officiated. The Woods are wealthy and prominent socially. The groom is a son of Mrs. Alfred Carpenter, a Colorado Springs pioneer, who is also prominent as a social leader here. He is a Harvard man and a rising young attorney.

FRIDAY ARROW SALE

Every Friday we hold an Arrow Sale, when we mark down for quick selling all odd lots, broken sizes, single pieces, samples, goods soiled or crushed in handling or used in window displays, and goods that for any reason have been slow in selling.

By this method we are able to keep our stocks fresh, clean and correct in every way.

Owing to the prevalence of exaggerated comparisons in Boston, comparative values in this store's advertising are entirely omitted—even in describing bargains. Hence the name—"Non-Comparative Price" Store.

KILLS MAN WHO WROTE TO WIFE

ROSEDALE, Miss., May 13.—Charles L. Jones, a planter, was put in jail here, charged with shooting Jesse Pace, Jr., a merchant at Arnold.

"I was just about to retire," said Jones, "when I found a note underneath my wife's pillow. I killed Pace. I am glad of it. If I had to do it over again I would act just the same. My wife confessed to me that the note was from Pace."

After the tragedy Jones surrendered and turned over the unsigned, lengthy note, containing endearing terms and suggestions which he said caused the shooting.

Shriners Secure Auto Race.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—Arrangements have been perfected by the committee in charge of the Shriners' convention to be held here next month whereby a national automobile race meet will be run in connection with the entertainment. The races will be contested over the Douglas Park track in conjunction with the Louisville Derbies' Association. Fifteen hundred in gold has been appropriated for prizes.

UNCLE SAYS NEPHEW IS MURDER VICTIM

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 13.—The police began an investigation into the cause of the death of Clyde Perkins, a South Bellingham (Mass.) young man, following the discovery of his body floating at the mouth of the Providence River, just behind the fire station.

H. B. Perkins of Woonsocket, R. I., an uncle of the boy, who identified the body, declared that it was his belief that his nephew was murdered April 30, the day he went to the city with three companions.

Perkins came to Providence in company with three other young men, according to the uncle, who has requested the police to talk with them concerning the affair.

PARIS STRIKE FAILS UNDER IRON POLICY

PARIS, May 13.—The vigorous policy of the government is dealing with the postmen and telegraphers, apparently has the backbone of the strike all but broken. If conditions remain as they are for twenty-four hours, the strike will have resolved itself into a bare fiasco.

The main body of the strikers are eagerly awaiting the evening session of the Chamber of Deputies when they hope the government will yield to their demands, at least in part. The movement has lost its economic character and has now become a revolutionary uprising against the authority of the government.

To-day the strike leaders made the declaration: "We will never go back to work so long as a Jar like Clemenceau is at the head of the ministry and a ruffian like Simyan has charge of the postal department."

The government to-day mobilized 25,000 soldiers, 5,000 police and 400 detectives. To-day the disorder consisted in several cases of assault upon postmen who refused to strike. Notice of dismissal was served upon 228 employes. The general confusion of affairs has helped to swing public sentiment in favor of the government.

The Bourses, the busiest telegraph centre in Paris, is surrounded by soldiers to prevent disorder. The telegraph and telephone cables are working and the government has drafted hundreds of men from the engineering corps. Communication will be assured even should all the remainder of the employes quit.

SOLONS WAR OVER SUNDAY BILLS' DEFEAT

Open warfare is threatened between the two branches of the State Legislature because of the defeat in the Senate of two "Open Sunday" bills—one authorizing the sale of ice cream, soda water, confectionery and fruit on Sunday and the other permitting the sale of kosher meat on Sunday by dealers whose stores are closed on Saturday.

Unless the upper branch to-day reconsiders its defeat of the two measures members of the House threaten to defeat the pet measures of the Senate when they reach the lower chamber. The two bills had been passed by the House by overwhelming votes after sharp debates. The merits of both measures had been thoroughly threshed out in the lower branch, and it was expected that their passage in the Senate would be easy.

It is the defeat so much as the manner of defeat that angers the House members. If the bills had been debated and then defeated in a wide open manner not a word of protest would be uttered. The Senate plunged the knife into the bills, however, without a word of debate, a dissenting vote or even a request for a riding vote.

It was a "smothering" process, pure and simple. Similar tactics recently on a resolve providing for an investigation of the State library prompted Representative Norman A. White of Brookline to describe the action as "in line with what might be expected from a corrupt city council." Members of the House, notably Representative Frank G. Hosking of Springfield and David Mancevitz of Lynn, S. Boston, canvassed the Senate members to-day and urged them to reconsider the defeat of the bills.

Both measures were of the "little man" sort, the sort that seldom gets by the Senate. Hundreds of small towns throughout the Commonwealth are clamoring for their passage. To-day settles it.

ARE YOU ARTIFICIAL OR INSINCERE? The famous essayist, Gilbert K. Chesterton, explains in the SUNDAY AMERICAN the difference between these two characteristics.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY'S WORK

Depends Upon Good Red Blood To Nourish The Body.

Weak People Need a Tonic

One Which Acts Directly Upon the Blood and That Does Not Weaken The Body by Useless Purging.

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for run-down conditions of the health is based on sound medical principles and on common sense. More and more men and women are beginning to realize that pure, red blood means health and that the efficiency of any tissue or organ is entirely dependent upon the quality of the blood.

There are thousands of people who are without ambition or strength to do their day's work and who are always tired out, have but little appetite and a poor digestion, cannot get a refreshing night's sleep and are subject to headaches, backaches and nervousness because their blood is impure.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give quick relief and permanently cure such men and women because of their direct action on the blood, which they purify and build up to its normal strength. As the blood becomes pure and red it strengthens the muscles, tones up the nerves, makes the stomach capable of digesting the food and remakes the wastes caused by growth and work. In a word, it gives perfect health.

A ROXBURY MAN

Cured of a Severe Case of Debility by This Remedy.

The only certain way to restore run-down conditions of the health is through the use of a good blood tonic. Mr. Lewis L. Fitzgerald, of No. 2A Marshfield street, Roxbury, Mass., who is a floorwalker in a department store, found Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the only medicine which built up and purified his blood. His cure then was rapid. He says:

"A few months ago I was completely run down as a result of long hours on my feet and confinement indoors. I had no appetite and felt mean all over. I tried several remedies without getting relief and then decided to take a rest, but hearing about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I gave them a trial. After using a few boxes I began to feel better and used them until entirely cured. I am now strong and do not get tired out as I formerly did."

CURE AT GREENFIELD.

Patient Weak After an Operation Until the Pills Restored Strength.

The cure of Mrs. A. H. Birney, of No. 96 Davis street, Greenfield, Mass., shows the value of the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"For over six months following an operation I remained in a weak and run-down condition. I was tired out all of the time and had no strength or ambition. I had weak spells when I was hardly able to get around. I became very thin and had no color.

"During this time I was at my home, but became no better. My husband finally advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began to feel better after I had used four or five boxes, but I kept right on, for I believe in N. Y. giving a medicine a good trial. In a few weeks I was in good health again. I gained in strength and weight and could sleep well. Since using the pills I have given them to my three children and they are all in good health."

A CURE IN WORCESTER.

Strength, Health and Spirits Restored by the Tonic Treatment.

"I was never strong and healthy as a young girl should be," says Mrs. W. Kempskie, of No. 3 Knox street, Worcester, Mass., "and when I went to work in one of the large shops of this city the confinement and lack of exercise had a very bad effect upon me. I became all run down and terribly weak. Severe pains shot through my temples, my appetite left me and I became thin and colorless. My blood seemed to be thin and did not circulate properly. I finally became so low in health and spirits that I could not work except at intervals.

"My sister-in-law knew how good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were for any one in my condition and it was upon her advice that I began taking them. A decided improvement came with the finishing of the first box and I continued taking them until the bad feelings all disappeared and I was able to keep steadily at work again. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me."

WAS WEAK AND THIN.

Insomnia Also Troubled This Massachusetts Man.

Mr. George M. Caldwell, of Onset, Mass., says:

"Through exposure to all kinds of weather I became very much run down and was weak and thin for months. I couldn't sleep well, had no appetite and my blood was in poor condition. I was so weak that I couldn't do my work.

"I took medicine from several doctors and then, upon the advice of a friend, tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They helped me from the start and after a good trial I was completely restored to health."

NOT LIKE ORDINARY MEDICINES.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not like ordinary medicines. They do not act on the bowels, but they may be said to actually make new blood. In this way they reach many diseases caused by depraved or vitiated blood, and have cured severe cases of rheumatism, sciatica, nervousness, St. Vitus' dance, and have accomplished miraculous results in partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia. They are also a specific for anaemia, chlorosis or green sickness and the special troubles of women and growing girls.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

CLAIMS JUROR SAID HE'D SEND HAINS TO CHAIR

NEW YORK, May 13.—Sensational points will be brought out in the case of Peter C. Hains to-day, when motion for a new trial will be argued before Judge Foster. Monday preparations for which are going on to-day.

"I expect to prove that one of the jurors —No. 8, Henry H. Nelson—expressed a decided opinion on the case before he was chosen," said John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for Captain Hains, to-day, following the conviction of manslaughter in the first degree for the killing of William E. Annis.

"An investigation is about to be started," continued Mr. McIntyre, "and I am confident that I can secure at least two affidavits that this juror, before he had been passed upon, told Yellow employes that his one desire to serve upon the night rested Captain Hains to the electric chair. The company by which Nelson is employed further expressed their willingness to permit me to push the investigation through. We will have affidavits proving the charge would bring about a new trial.

"One of the juror's fellow employes called me up two weeks or so ago and told me of Nelson's expression of opinion.

"I am also looking into the question of jurisdiction. I want to find out if Captain Hains's trial in a State court was legal, or whether as an army officer he should not have been tried by court-martial.

"I have found one precedent that shows the trial should have been before an army court. It is that of a West Pointer who murdered a fellow cadet. He was judged by an army board, in spite of the efforts of the State authorities to put him on trial.

"I will apply for a new trial Monday. If that should be refused then a writ of prohibition will be sought. There is little question of our being able to secure that.

"Should we get the writ it would act as a stay, form or eight weeks probably being required to prepare for the new trial.

"That application, if it is made, will be based in part on the fact that District Attorney Dewitt asked Thornton Hains if he killed Edward Hannegan. There was no license for such a question. Mr. Hains having been acquitted of that charge. At the time I asked that the jury be withdrawn.

"If we secure a new trial a change of venue will be demanded, as it is impossible for Captain Hains to get a fair trial in Queen's county because of the general prejudice against his client."

BELIEVED ELIOT WILL TAKE MISSION

Emperor William of Germany is to honor President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard by conferring upon him the Order of the Crown of Prussia.

It became known to-day, from dispatches from Washington, that it is extremely likely that President Eliot will be appointed first to the post as ambassador to Great Britain, or as representing the administration on equity commission mission. If another Hague conference is held soon, President Eliot will be a delegate.

President Eliot will not serve long in either capacity. He accepts the office (which has not yet been made) it will be chiefly with the idea of securing a general arbitration treaty. Duplicates of this treaty will also be arranged with the other leading powers of Europe and probably with Japan and China.

Baron Takahira, Japan's ambassador, appeared in the role of a peace advocate at the second annual dinner of the Conciliation Club in Harvard Union, at which President Eliot was a guest.

Incidentally he pointed out that arbitration of international disputes often does not contribute to the cause of peace.

SCHOOL CHEATED BY TABLET OF 200 YEARS

The English High School Alumni Association at its annual meeting adopted a resolution to remove the tablet, dated of 1871-4 that they make a change in the tablet recently erected to mark the site of the ancient Latin School on Bedford street, by removing the word "third" from the second line of the inscription on the tablet. This for the reason that, although the building was the third to be occupied by both the High and Latin schools, the Latin School had occupied three or four buildings prior to 1844. Therefore the tablet as it stands cheats the Latin School out of about 200 years that it existed before the High School was started.

ELIOT GOING TO HARVARD MEETING

CINCINNATI, May 13.—Great preparations are being made for the national meeting of the associated Harvard clubs May 28 and 29. The meeting will be notable on account of the presence of President Charles William Eliot and of President-elect Abbott Lawrence Lowell.

Arthur G. Cable, president of the Harvard Crimson and manager of the Harvard baseball team; Percy Haughton, the football coach, and Le Baron Russell Briggs, dean of the university, will speak.

SHOE MEN GATHER AT FAIR BUILDING

The New England Shoe and Leather Association formally indorsed the first World's Shoe and Leather Fair by an official visit of the directors. The party left Boston in autos from the association building and went direct to the building on the Esplanade, Cambridge. Among the speakers were President Curtis C. Hoyt, Mayor William F. Brooks of Cambridge, Alfred W. Donovan, president of the Boston Boot and Shoe Club; Thomas F. Anderson, secretary of the New England Shoe and Leather Association; Frederick B. Rice of Rice & Hutchins; Fred F. Cutler, editor of the Shoe Retailers' George R. Putnam, editor of the Boot and Shoe Recorder; and Oliver M. Fisher of the M. A. Packard Company.

ADRIFT THREE DAYS; WAS NOT HUNGRY

Robert Schroder, forty-four, of East Boston, was picked up by the British schooner Audacious and brought to Boston, after being adrift on the open ocean for three days and nights without food or water. He was on the verge of collapse when picked up by the schooner, but declared he had not been hungry or thirsty.

Schroder was a member of the crew of the fishing schooner Florida. He was hauling trawls Sunday when a heavy for shot in, and he was unable to locate his vessel.

Has Nobody Missed This Baby Yet?

As time passes and nobody comes forward to claim the little two-year-old baby who was found on Harrison avenue last Saturday morning, it becomes evident either that the boy was purposely abandoned or that his mother or guardian has met with accident or foul play and is not able to claim him.

It is hardly likely that a mother, or even a paid caretaker, would abandon such a bright and winsome chap as this one. Babies just born are occasionally abandoned, but babies two years old, whom some one has learned to love, who have had the care and attention that this little chap has had—seldom.

Cannot some one identify him and solve, not only the mystery of HIS antecedents, but also the mystery of what has happened to his mother?

LOVING HANDS HAD CARED FOR CHILD

By DOROTHY AMES.

Could your baby be missing almost five days without you knowing it?

If you missed him, would you neglect to notify the police?

Would you let him go unclaimed?

Some mother either hasn't missed her baby or else she isn't making any effort to find him.

He's the bright-haired two-year-old boy found by the police Saturday morning and now in the care of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children at No. 43 West Vernon street.

Unfortunately the published photographs do not adequately represent the child, as they make him appear somewhat stouter and more full-faced than he really is. As a matter of fact, he is just a trifle anaemic looking, with a delicate pale bluish look about the eyes. He has probably had some Winter illness, as he wore a special chest protector of white flannel.

The little waif has surely been used to care and attention, for he loves to be cuddled and petted far above the average child. He has the most adorable smile and a perfectly engaging way of catching his under lip with his white even upper teeth when he laughs.

He had been washed clean, and his clothing was carefully mended, showing that a loving hand had looked after him.

Unfortunately, he isn't able to talk, except to lisp "Mamma" and "Papa" and "No."

It is positively assured that he comes from English speaking parents, as he understands every word that is said to him.

When the matron said: "Come, dear, and let me pull up your stockings," he trotted over to her and clambered up into her lap in the sweetest, most obedient sort of a way.

Fine ringlets of reddish gold hair cluster in abundance around his face, and his eyelashes are remarkably long and curved.

Although he has been questioned repeatedly, no one has been able to elicit a single clew to his identity.

For the first time to-day he cried to be taken to his mother. He had laughed and romped and slept and eaten in perfect content for three days until a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter suggested that he be taken to his mother.

The little face became serious and there was a more than perceptible bit of a pucker around the brows.

When I was about to leave the baby had not forgotten and cried to go.

He seemed to realize the loss of his parents for the first time, but even then was unable to say anything that would lead to their discovery.

WALSH BUYS SHOW PLACE AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., May 13.—It is understood that Thomas F. Walsh of Washington and Colorado has purchased the H. Mortimer Brooks estate, "Rockhurst," on Bellevue avenue and the Cliffs. This was originally the Gardner Brewer property of Boston, and is one of the show places in Newport. The place is assessed on a valuation of $364,100.

SPANISH FOOT IN CINDERELLA CONTEST NOW

A barefoot enthusiast, a "Spanish Instep" and a Parisian foot from Paris—these are among the latest interesting entries to the Cinderella contest of the BOSTON AMERICAN.

The barefoot enthusiast is a woman who went barefoot as much as possible when she was a girl. She displayed a remarkably pretty foot and remarked as she did so.

"They say that going barefoot in childhood will injure the foot. But I do not think so. When I was a girl, well up to the time almost that I was a young woman, I went barefoot Summers in the country as long as my mother would let me. My foot was never harmed in the least. Of course I stubbed my toes now and then and cut my feet but never received any permanent harm. And I think my foot was strengthened. I have a high arch and it is as firm and strong as can be."

The foot surely justified the owner's claim for the benefits of going barefoot in suitable season. This contestant may give the other contestants a lively run for the prize places.

Enters "Spanish Instep."

But this foot wasn't a bit prettier than the one with the real "Spanish Instep," which came in a little later. The owner of this foot is a Roxbury woman.

Do you girls recall that famous contest among Boston women to see who could wear the little jeweled slipper offered as a prize by Miss Virginia Hatched, the actress, ten years ago?

This Roxbury woman was a contestant and was next to the prizewinner. She figures that her foot is still small and pretty enough to enter the BOSTON AMERICAN contest. One of the characteristics of her foot is what artists call the Spanish instep, which rises in a pretty upward curve between the heel and the ball of the foot.

Then there was a Parisian entry, a chic young woman whose foot was small, plump and well-formed.

"French women have the prettiest feet," she said, "and the Parisian women have the prettiest feet in France. That's what they say, anyhow."

And the Parisian contestant, who has been living in Boston the past few years, laughed merrily at her own self-praise.

A professional model made another interesting contestant. She is a young woman, barely out of her teens. She had a well-kept and shapely foot, which, she said, had often been drawn and modelled.

Many Entries Received.

Thus they kept coming, more and more of them. The Cinderella Editor was kept on the jump all day yesterday meeting contestants, receiving entries and exhibiting about the contest.

The contestant with the Cinderella Editor not to publish their names or addresses. None will be published. But as the close the names of the winners will be printed. That will be acceptable, of course. Hardly any girl or woman would object to having it known that she won one of the prizes.

These prizes are five in number. The BOSTON AMERICAN gives three of them, as follows:

First—A golden slipper inlaid with jewels.

Second—Silver-scrolled slipper.

Third—$25 cash.

Then there is another and unique prize. This is offered by Manager Arthur Houghton of "A Stubborn Cinderella" Company, now playing at the Colonial Theatre. On behalf of Mort St. Singer, owner of the production, Manager Houghton offers a place in his dramatic company for any one of these contestants.

How Prizes Are Decided.

The prizes will be decided as follows: After the contest closes on May 20 a board of three judges, one artist and expert on beauty, will select the best thirty to qualify. From these thirty the judges will choose the three best. The prizes will be awarded by the BOSTON AMERICAN.

From the same thirty Manager Houghton will select the one to be offered a position in "A Stubborn Cinderella" Company.

Make an outline drawing of your foot—at home if you wish—cut out the entry blank appended to this article and bring the blank and the outline drawing to the BOSTON AMERICAN office. Or you can have the drawing made at the BOSTON AMERICAN office if you wish.

The Cinderella Foot Editor will have your foot photographed free of expense to you for this contest.

UNCOVER NEW 'BLIND ACCOUNT'

NEW YORK, May 13.—Another large "blind" speculative account, it is asserted to-day, has been discovered on the books of Ennis & Stoppani, the bankrupt stock and grain brokers, whose star "blind account" customer was Patrick Henry McCarren. If the balances due on the new find can be recovered more than $60,000 will be added to the funds in the hands of the receiver for distribution among the victims.

The name behind the numerals veiling the account, it is said, is L. J. Maguire, but whether he is responsible for it or whether his name was employed to hide the personal speculations of a member of the firm could not be ascertained. Maguire is said to be a wealthy New Jersey man.

Counsel for Ennis & Stoppani denied that his clients were still in hiding.

"They were in hiding until I obtained the court order protecting them," for the time being, from arrest in civil cases," he said, "but since then they have been more easy, and to-day they are at their homes or at the office of their business adviser, Treadwell Cleveland."

JEFFERSON DAVIS'S NAME RESTORED

WASHINGTON, May 13.—By the end of the present week the name of Jefferson Davis will have been chiseled again into stone on the famous Cabin John bridge, six miles west of this city. President Roosevelt having given instructions to this effect previous to his retirement. After Mr. Davis had become President of the confederacy, the latter's name was chiseled out by some stanch adherent of the union.

BIG LION HUNT MADE TO ORDER

NEW YORK, May 13.—Shooting lions in Africa when one is an ex-President of the United States is a good deal like taking pot shots at golden pheasants on a royal preserve. It is hunting with all chances eliminated.

That is the opinion of Charles Atwood, who spent five years in the Leart of the region which Colonel Roosevelt has made famous.

"You see, it's this way," he explained. "The natives have known for weeks and months ahead that 'Teddy' was coming. They have everything planned out, even to posting guards all over that part of the country to report game. Now all the former President has to do is to blaze away at the game before him. The natives find the animals and lead the distinguished visitor up to the spot where he can draw a bead on them.

"However, it is the rhinoceros and not the lion which is to be most feared on the African soil. He is the true king of beasts and most dreaded by the hunter. His two and one-half tons of weight come with terrible force when he rushes at his enemy. Why, I have passed many times—once at the same time—and they stalked away.

"As to disease, the danger to Roosevelt will not be very great. A white man is rarely stricken with the 'sleeping sickness.'"

Mr. Atwood was connected with a missionary station at Nairobe, British East Africa.

PREFERS MEXICO TO PAYING ALIMONY

In testifying in her divorce suit in the Middlesex Superior Court at East Cambridge to-day Mrs. Marcia Nickerson of Somerville said she had been granted separate support from her husband, and that he had gone to New Mexico since then rather than pay her the money ordered by the court. Mrs. Nickerson said her husband was angry from the time they married because she did not have as much money as he thought she did. No pattern has been entered by the husband, Ernest Nickerson. Judge Hardy took the case under advisement.

Diseases of the Hair

The scalp is the seat of many hair diseases. Out of the pores of the scalp constantly comes an oily secretion, together with cast-off cells and waste matter that Nature has no further use for. The oily secretion is intended to keep the scalp moist and supple, and so give lustre and beauty to the hair. However, dust, dirt and disease germs floating in the air settle upon the head, and the oily secretion holds them fast. In time scales and dandruff form, the pores become clogged, and the first thing you know your hair begins to fall out. A child ought to see that the hair isn't at fault, but the scalp. You don't need a "tonic" or "grower" or "renewer" or "rejuvenator." Most of those things are rank frauds. If you have tried them, you know it. What you need is a cleanser. The trouble with soaps and shampoos generally is that they remove all the oily secretion from the hair and the scalp, and rob them of the very thing that Nature provided to keep the head moist and supple, and the hair lustrous. You are advised to try Birt's Head Wash, which is not merely something to clean the scalp and hair, but it replaces the oil that it removes. There is in it a free oil that leaves on both the scalp and hair just about the same amount of oily matter that Nature herself supplies. Birt's Head Wash cleans the head thoroughly, and when you are through your hair will have a beautiful lustre and sheen, and the scalp will be delightfully clean. It makes a fine, thick, clear lather, and is so carefully proportionated that it can be used alike upon the heads of men, women and children. There is printed upon each jar of Birt's Head Wash the following formula, showing just what it is made of: Refined Soap, Glycerin, Cochin Cocoanut Oil, White of Eggs and Salicylic Acid. Any professional man familiar with hair and scalp troubles will tell you that this is as good and reliable a preparation as you can buy. Price 50 cents at all druggists.

KETCHEL DOES NOT LOOK GOOD TO O'CONNOR

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Joe O'Connor, former manager of Ketchel, has returned from New York. It was reported here that O'Connor had gone east in hopes that he would prevail upon the Grand Rapids boxer to place himself under his care again. While O'connor does not say that he would like to resume the direction of Ketchel's affairs, if asked to do so he says candidly that he made no proposition to Ketchel. O'Connor is willing to say just as much in regard to Ketchel, but adds that he was not asked why the way the condition of Papke and Kelly is going to himself.

He does not look good to me," said he recently. "Mind you, I may be wrong, but to me it looks as though Ketchel had no thought of anything but a knockout. I think that New York is a bit too sporty for him."

If the following telegram received to-day; New York, May 12

Jim O'Rourke San Francisco:

Matters are switching quickly with me Long distance again

WILLUS BRITT.

There is no news in a nutshell here. It means just simply that Langford's manager is holding to the idea of Tom Morrison's [illegible] Langford-Ketchel match in the Southern city during the Elks' carnival in July is imminent.

As Willus says, matters are switching quickly. The day before he wired Coffroth, "Please save July 5 for Ketchel will anybody."

It may be that if Kelly or Papke wins in a sensational manner on Saturday there will be all another switch.

WINNERS TO MEET IN THIS TEN-MILE RACE

Some fast time is credited in the ten mile handicap road race Memorial Day under the auspices of the Naumpaukeag Club of Salem as the best runners in the section are entering the event.

Many of the winners of long distance races out in the suburbs this spring will compete, and a field will be entered which will test talent in the 10-mile route to the limit for the winners and a record prize for fastest actual time made. The race will be pulled off by the A. A. and all registered athletes may enter.

Entries close on May 27, with James Rafferty, Somerville, Mass.

B. A. A. MEN TO GO AFTER NEW RECORD

The next big event of the Boston Athletic Association comes June 6 when the annual club track championships will be held on Cleveland Highlands near the site of the former no-dis held at Auburndale which was more social than athletic.

A special feature will be a try at the 220 yard record held by Tom Burke made in 1895. The Unicorn runner who will go after the new record are Ernest Nelson Penny, Young and Merriman.

FAMOUS FIGHTING QUARTERS BURNED

TONOPAH, Nev., May 13.—The big Casino dance hall, one of the largest and most notorious places of its kind in the country, was damaged by fire to-day and many of prize fighters trained there. Among them were Joe Gans, Martin Judge, Jack Twin Sullivan, Mike Shreck and others.

Adams Square

UNDER THE OLD STRAW HAT

By C. E. VAN LOAN.

Once in a while an earnest inquirer writes to ask whether Tom Sharkey did not win one of his fights with Jim Jeffries. It is a safe bet that these inquirers resided in Manila during 1899.

Manila is the only city in the world which paid off on Tom Sharkey after that second fight at Coney Island, and Manila had something to pay, being at the time a sporty town where gambling was wide open, the Constitution being somewhat behind the flag in those early days of the American invasion. Manila is quieter now, but in 1899 a man might bet on anything and bet as long as his money lasted.

In 1899 the newspapers in the city of Manila were not receiving press dispatches. At that time, in order to get word to the islands, it was necessary to cable from New York to London, from London to Hong Kong, and from Hong Kong to Manila, and this cost real money and kept the little American papers out of the game. News came in by the mail steamers from "home" and the sports had to wait weeks for the news.

Tars All Picked Sharkey.

Interest was keen in the world's championship battle between Jeffries and Sharkey, which was fought at Coney Island in November. Manila was full of sailors as well as soldiers, and no sailor ever picked Jeffries to whip the pride of the navy. Some of these sailors not only bet and others never will. On the occasion of the second meeting of the two gladiators, Manila, just taken under Uncle Sam's wing, went wild with excitement.

The poolrooms were swamped with American money and every sailor in the fleet had a Sharkey ticket, the soldiers taking the Jeffries end of the controversy.

One of the newspaper men in Manila was named Fagin. He was a soldier of fortune who had lost several battles, backed on every paper in the United States and had been one of the few who came forward to appear in the last ands. He picked up a living as best he could, now on one paper and now on another, and when in condition to do so he was a good man.

For weeks before the fight Manila was at fever heat. Every mail steamer brought in a fresh batch of American papers, and the sporting pages, with the training camp news, fanned the city into a flame. Officers from the ships and the regiments made bets at their clubs; the enlisted men went to the poolrooms and thousands of dollars went into the pool boxes. The sports confidently expected the Manila papers to furnish them with a flash on the fight, giving them the winner, if nothing more.

The papers "fell down." For some reason or other, word did not come over the cables.Long Long while.

Just before the new Manila Journal went to press Fagin came rushing into the office. He was wildly excited.

"I understand you've just had the word on the Jeffries-Sharkey fight!" said he.

"Every sport in town has been around here to ask who," said the city editor, a young man from Missouri. "We're in a bad fix."

Fagin Had a Scoop.

"I have seen a private message—came in cipher," panted Fagin, "and I've got the result of the fight, the rounds and all the facts. Some of these fellows have registered the deal and they're going to do some quiet betting between now and 10 o'clock when the report comes. There'll be a clean up on it. How much do I get for the story?"

"You get fifty," said the city editor, who was a young man of action.

"Fifty Mex?" asked Fagin.

"Fifty gold," said the city editor. "Sit down there and write the story and be quick about it. Who won and how many rounds, so I can get up a big scare head on it."

"Sharkey won by a knockout in the eighth round," said Fagin.

"You don't say," said the city editor "Get at that story."

"I'm on," said Fagin, briefly. "I'll fake you up a good story and you can't tell the well do the thing right here."

"Go as far as you like," said the editor "Eat 'em all up."

The press editor who had seen something of Fagin and knew his style, suggested that it might be a good thing to see a copy of the message if possible.

"Want a chance?" said Fagin. "Not a chance! This fellow expects to clean up a lot of money in this town. Think he'll show it to YOU? Not on your life." They let me in as a special favor. I've done a little work for them and he wanted me to win a bet for myself."

Fagin plunged into the story. He fairly slathered in bloody details. He wrote a description of the fight in detail that caused the city editor to grin and wag his head as the copy fed in, sheet by sheet.

Fagin's Stuff is Bully.

"Bully stuff, Fagin!" said he. "Keep it going!"

Fagin had Jeffries leading in the early rounds, and then the plunging sailor came in and cut down the California with his nail-like rushes and the ring was flooded with gore. It was a great description, and the city editor did not regret the fifty gold when the news had cost him.

Then he had an inspiration. The city editor wrote a small notice stating that the description of the fight had been written from a cipher dispatch received that afternoon.

"That'll make it look all good and regular," he said to himself.

The paper came out with an extra on the result of the fight, and there was no one in Manila before surprising they were in his power. It's a way they have in some great cities.

The editor married into the poolrooms with avidity, and Fagin, presenting his bill to Jeffries, was shook their heads and scratch and wondered how such a big dub had ever beaten Bob Fitzsimmons. The other papers were scooped and scooped properly. Some of them went so far as to cast a doubt on the famous fight story printed by the Manila Journal. Chief Gentry, the sporting editor of one of the other sheets, demanded to know the name of the man who had received the cable message. There was great excitement all that night and the city was full of sailor fellers looking for missing men. Several soldiers were badly whipped by the bluejackets, who were anxious to make the occasion one worth remembering. Several cable messages were sent to New York. Queries were sent out in all directions.

He Needed Change of Air.

Late that night Fagin met Chet Gentry on the plaza.

"I think I will take the steamer tomorrow morning," said Fagin.

"Are you going away from here" asked the unsuspecting Gentry.

"For my health," said Fagin solemnly. "I need a change of air

When the first authentic message came in from New York there was something doing in the Journal office. Everybody was talking of Jeffries and came howling for revenge. The young man from Missouri had some exciting days handling the trade. He explained for several weeks, but the bets had been paid and the money were considered to the four winds. The terrific turnover drove the city editor out of the newspaper business. He, too, "went to Hong Kong to make a stake" and is living there he met Fagin, and what he did to him forms no part of this story.

JACK O'BRIEN HAS CHANCE TO BEAT JOHNSON

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Philadelphia fight enthusiasts are beginning to look forward to the coming six-to-six bat tle between Jack Johnson and Jack O'Brien, when will take place next Wednesday night before the National Sporting Club.

It will be Johnson's first appearance in the ring since he bested Tommy Burns in Australia, when he won the heavyweight championship, and for the past two weeks the big colored man has been in training in one of the suburbs of Pittsburg, making sure that he will be ready for a tough argument when he steps into the ring with the Quaker.

O'Brien showed wonderful cleverness in his fight with Ketchel here, and while he not been knocked out in the ninth round in that eventful battle he says he would have been given the popular decision. He showed flashes of his old form and went at lightning speed for seven rounds, when he tired from the fast clip.

As his next go will be of six rounds duration, there is a chance of the Quaker slipping through with the decision. Johnson, while one of the most powerful boxers in the ring, will be forced to go his fastest against O'Brien to win seven rounds and those who make odds in betting evens cannot as yet make their choice as to the boot appears to be a close one.

Johnson will have weight and height on his side and it is a question who will be able to get in the leading and opening the six rounds. The champion is short and cagy, while Ketchel, who knows Jack's style and are sure dangerous. O'Brien realized to go through the rough and wild tactics of Ketchel for seven rounds in a fight and with superb footwork but will a big fellow of Johnson's form stand up to the pace and they lose the said what? Only the second knows.

Jack Monahan and all referee to our all insist that the go at eleven rounds is the best to be staged. The strenuous inches and a interesting in the work.

GRANT EBY AT WHITE BEAR

Since the great strife in the local billiard circles that ended last Saturday, there is nothing to keep the cues from getting down to the verge of frenzied excitement except the Class C tournament at the Hub Billiard Palace and the play-off of the conference, Grant Eby, at Max Murray's White Bear.

In the tournament play Goodwin is now leading with six won and one lost.

To-night Thurston tackles Hill, to-morrow night Goodwin and Frank have a chance to increase their percentage, while on Friday evening Goodwin will pay Malo.

Those interested in swell pool playing cannot afford missing the opportunity of seeing Eby at Murray's this week. Experts at the game say that the above big string of matches are nothing less than marvelous.

To decide a dispute left to the AMERICAN it cannot be said there is any great difference between James Ryan and Abe Warren in referring a billiard match. Both have good voices in calling off the counts.

In playing fancy shots, however, Ryan is supposed to have it all over Warren, as the latter has never claimed to be any thing else than a three-cushion manipulator of the ivories, and at that game is certainly right good for an amateur.

BOSTON BOWLERS GOING TO NEW YORK

Bowling is on its last legs in Boston till next Fall, when it will be back stronger than ever. It is understood that the strength of the game in this city has been the reason for three prominent men building alleys in the spacious Empire Theatre International big pin tournament that starts in New York the latter part of the month will take about a week and a couple of its best teams, the Faneuils and Parks.

If the men on these teams can carry their clip in the big city it would seem that there is a fairly good chance of their bringing home some of the cash and trophy prizes.

LENNY AND CONNORS DRAW.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Harry Lenny and Johnny Connors fought ten fast rounds to a draw at the Sharkey A. C. Conners dropped his opponent for the count of eight in the first session, but Lenny came back strong in the succeeding rounds and in the end had Conners staggering. Harry Stone and Ben Douglas were scheduled to meet in the star bout, but after going two slow rounds they were chased from the ring by the referee. Eddie Stanton lost to Bert Stewart in ten rounds.

KELLY IN SHAPE FOR PAPKE BOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Hugo Kelly, light of loin and powerful of shoulder, looks like a finely trained race horse just now. He is over at Colma resting on his oars, or treading water, or doing anything you like that keeps keeping himself at the splendid pitch of condition which he has reached after consecutive work. Kelly does nothing but box.

Papke and he is very busily yesterday and fully made up for his absence of work on the day previous. A big jaunt on the road was indulged in before supper, and in the afternoon using the work of one of his trainers he went through every grunt in gymnasium perhaps more so for there has been no change in training and since the middle of last week straight near it is doubtful if either can be forced into favoritism. As late as this morning individual bets were being made on the affair at even money.

Not Always So Sudden

"She knows when he loves, but not when he'll confess"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"It's a girl always taken by surprise when a man proposes to her?" asked a young man the other day. "I can only answer yes and no. A girl always knows when a man cares for her, but she does not always know the exact moment when he will propose.

Some men go on [illegible] lead people to [illegible] and then [illegible] as true, and [illegible]

DRAMA

Bert Williams of Williams and Walker is singing some characteristic songs at Keith's Theatre this week. His monologue is also clever.

"The Golden Butterfly" at the Hollis Street Theatre is a new comic opera with a plot as well as some very captivating music.

Jack Lorimer, now at the Orpheum, never made a bigger hit in Boston than during his present engagement. He has new songs and dance steps.

"The Runaway Girl" is still the attraction at the Castle Square Theatre and is being given a presentation which warrants its long run.

Four more performances of "The Music Master" at the Majestic Theatre will end David Warfield's engagement.

The Colonial Theatre has in "A Stubborn Cinderella" one of the strongest entertainments seen there this season. The house has been packed.

Billy Watson is a burlesque comedian with a following. His company is at the Columbia Theatre this week and drawing big houses.

The Yankee Doodle Girls are a company of very pretty girls. They are now at the Howard.

"Rachel Goldstein," at the Bowdoin Square Theatre, is a melodrama which is sure to please.

Harry Emerson is the principal comedian of the Gay Masqueraders at the Gaiety Theatre. The chorus girls are all good looking.

Chauncy Olcott is singing some new songs in "Ragged Robin" at the Boston Theatre and they have all won public favor.

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" at the Tremont Theatre is a new play, which gives May Robson a chance to shine as a character star.

"The Traveling Salesman" grows more in favor the longer its run at the Park Theatre continues. It is a genuine stage success.

The bill at the Hub Theatre includes Nobbs, Bordeau and Nobbs and several other favorites.

The "Pops" are being given nightly at Symphony Hall by fifty-five members of the world's best orchestra.

Motion pictures and vaudeville form the entertainment which is being given at the comfortable new Palace Theatre.

Fred Niblo will give his London act at the Park Theatre to-morrow afternoon and Sunday evening.

The Olio Theatre picture and vaudeville show is pleasing everybody who goes there this week.

The wives and daughters of the railroad conductors, now holding a convention in Boston, will attend Keith's Theatre to-morrow evening with their husbands are at a stag party elsewhere.

The engagement of Mr. E. H. Sothern at the Majestic Theatre for two weeks, beginning next Monday, will provide one of the most delightful dramatic treats of the present season. Interest is added by the fact that Miss Julia Marlowe will appear with Mr. Sothern in the two performances of "Hamlet."

The Scotch people of Boston and vicinity, headed by the Highland Dress Association, are to-night going to give a big reception to Jack Lorimer at the Orpheum Theatre. The reception will start at the City Hall with a dinner given to the popular Scotch comedian by Alderman Ballantyne.

THEORIES CHEER

All a man's theories about women go by the board when he signs the matrimonial agreement.

ONCE upon a Time there was a High Browed Youth who regarded Life Seriously, and who was not Swayed by Impulse so to many Ordinary Youths are.

"The Reason why there are so many Failures," he was wont to say, "is because the Majority of people are On Their Way, but they do not know Where they are Going. They lack Logic and Reason, and have never found out that Two And Two Make Four. Now, without wishing to hand any Bouquets to myself, I feel assured that I shall Escape the pitfalls that these Bromides fall into because I have carefully Figured everything out.

"For example, take the trifling Matter of Matrimony. Picking out a Wife should be as Easy and Safe a proposition as buying a Pound of Chocolate Creams. All that you have to do is to go to the Right Shop, and get Something that suits your taste.

"When I get good and ready to Tie Up wit' a Bunch of Calico I shall put her through the following Civil Service examination:

"First I shall say, 'My dear Sadie, can you produce a Doctor's Certificate, showing that you are a husky young woman without any Nerves concealed about your person, for I do not desire to put in the next Thirty or Forty years working in order that some Swell Medical Guy may ride around in automobiles, nor do I yearn to be one of those Unfortunate Benedicts who have to Dim shoe around their own homes for fear of making a noise that will disturb the Lodger.

"Then I shall inquire if she is a good Free Hand Cook, who can prepare a Handy Meal that her husband can eat without being compelled to run the full Marathon distance afterward in order to digest it.

"After this I shall propound a Leading question as to whether she is Neat and Orderly, or one of the Female Scatterings who hang their Clothes up on the Floor.

"Then I shall put in the Hooks as to her Views on the Financial Situation in the home, and ascertain whether a Dollar looks as big to her as a Cartwheel, or like a slice of a dyspeck.

"Next I shall find out whether she Shys at the Cook Stove and Sewing Machine, or whether she had rather Work than go to the matinee.

"Having settled these points to my Satisfaction, my Knees will not Rattle like Castanets at the altar with fright as the Orange Bridegroom's do, because I shall know just what I am getting.'

In this way did the Wise Youth done out a System of How To Be Happy Though Married that, undoubtedly, would have been a Great Success except that at the Critical Moment it slipped a Cog.

By and by the Wise Youth met up with a Beauteous Maiden who was a Peach in a Fresh Basket but, alas, he forthwith Forgot all of the important Practical Questions that he had intended asking his Prospective Bride, and only asked her to be His.

"Alas," said the maiden, "if you would gladden Yours, but I am of such Frail Health that I fear to be a burden upon you."

"Say not so, Adored One," replied the Wise Youth. "For I see no Greater Privilege than Spending My Life Nursing and Caring for you."

"Woe is me," said the Maiden, "but I am a Helpless Creature, who can neither Cook nor Sew.

"Forget it," cried the Wise Youth, "for I shall Never permit this Lily White Hand to do Aught harder than soothing my Weary brow."

"I fear," sighed the Maiden, "that I am sadly extravagant, for the Best is not Good Enough for me, and I should Flee away and Die without imported lingerie."

"Hived me but the Right to Toil to supply your every want," implored the Wise Youth, "and I shall ask no other Happiness of fate."

Having Thus, in the Good Old Fashioned Way, picked out a Wife who did not Measure up in a Thousand miles to the Specifications that he had Mapped Out, they were married, and lived Scrappily ever afterward.

Moral—This fable teaches that when Love bites a Fellow his Theories about women go to the Mat.

SOCIETY

Notable among the season's social events is the "Cafe Chantant" to be given by the Professional Woman's Club in Copley Hall on the night of Thursday, May 20. The patronesses include Mrs. Roger Wolcott, Mrs. Lars Anderson, Mrs. John C. Gray, Mrs. F. R. Sears, Mrs. J. Arthur Beebe, Miss Clara Endicott Sears, Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, Mrs. Lucius M. Sargent, Mrs. W. A. Bancroft, Mrs. Carl Dreyfus and other social leaders of the Boston and Brookline sets.

The affair will take the form of an entertainment in one of the "cafe chantants" of Paris. It will be presented by professional talent exclusively, and numbers among the principals such well-known entertainers as Miss Alice Chapman, the beautiful and talented dramatic reader; Miriam O'Leary Collins, Carrie Louise Holly, Mary Ashton, Bertha Westhoff Swift, Lila Vilas Wyman, Sara D. Mosher, Flora Grant Parker, Dr. Rney Bartlett and Miss Caro Colburn and others of equal prominence.

The long list of waitresses and ushers is headed by Miss Alice Chapman. Miss Helen M. Winslow is chairman of the committee in charge.

* * *

It is announced that the Wellesley College students will be allowed to wear men's clothes at their Barnswallow performances in the Barn.

This statement was made to the students by Miss Josephine Butterfield, the president of the Barnswallows after many conferences between the Barn board, faculty and the members of the student government, who have earnestly sought a satisfactory solution of the costume problem.

From now on the Barn heroes are to be truly heroic and a man in bloomers is a thing of the past.

The trousers, however, are to be worn provided that they are made and cared for according to certain requirements, which have not yet been announced. They are to be worn only in indoor performances, which no men are to be allowed to witness.

A committee, of which the new president of the Barnswallows is to be chairman, will be appointed to provide a new wardrobe, which will be the Barn's property, and which will fulfill the requirements.

The Barnswallow Association has voted $100 to cover expenses, and the new plan will be put into operation by next year.

The plays at the college are to be divided into two classes, the indoor plays and the outdoor plays. In the outdoor plays the former regulation costumes will be worn.

HOW TO HAVE A BEAUTIFUL NECK AND SHOULDERS. Mme. Cavallari tells it in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

THE JOURNAL OF A NEGLECTED WIFE

By MABEL HERBERT URNER.

(Copyright, 1909, by H. W. Dodge & Co.)

WHEN my husband made that cool retort, refusing to tell me where he had been, I lost my self-control, as I said, and before I could recover myself, my thoughts were bared.

Then I will tell you where you have been," said I. "You were with another woman—the woman for whom you have neglected me for over a year! And you thought I didn't know—didn't know you were in the toils of some woman—a bad, shameless woman—a common——"

"Mary!" He took a step toward me, his hands clenched, his face ghastly pale.

"Oh, I know you could kill me for saying that. I only wish you would. Don't you think I would welcome death instead of this life I've been living for months? But it shall not go on. You will promise me now that you will never see her again, or I will end it all to-night. Will you promise me that—will you? Will you promise never to see that——"

There was something in his face—some thing that——

"Then go to her—live with her—marry her if you will! I will never trouble you again."

A great red wave seemed before my eyes as I rushed down the hall into the bath room and locked the door. The bottles—the bottles on the medicine shelf! Hypodermic, toilet water, bay rum—in a frenzied glance my eyes scored the labels. Was there nothing—nothing that would give oblivion—that would end it all forever?

The door was being fiercely shaken. "Open this door, Mary!" his voice came hoarsely from the outside. "Open it, or I will break it down—nothing quick—quick—before he wrenched the door from its hinges. I reached some bottle from the shelf as I frantically thrust them aside to get to those behind. Camphor, ether, bay, glycerine—oh, was there nothing—nothing? Then both of them all shop—the label "Laudanum—Poison."

And there—my trembling fingers broke the cork. Half of it remained right in the neck of the bottle. He was throwing his whole weight upon the door now—in a moment it would come down. I tore the scarpfin from my dress—it beat in the cork. Then I caught up a tooth brush and thrust the handle against the cork—it yielded. Another thrust pushed it down into the bottle.

I raised it to my lips—a deafening crash—glass fell shattering all around me. I stood paralyzed. Through the empty door-frame, from which he had shivered the heavy groundglass, Horace's white face and dark, gleaming eyes were fixed upon me.

Another second and he had reached through a blood-stained hand, unlocked the door, threw it open, jerked the bottle from me and hurled it to the floor. I heard it break and smelled the pungent odor of laudanum.

Then he half led, half carried me to the couch in my room. The blood from his cut hand had dripped down the front of my dress, and there was a large red stain on the lace of my sleeve. I took it dully.

At the moment I think I was incapable of any feeling. I heard him go back into the bathroom. He returned with a towel wrapped around his hand.

Neither of us had spoken. I was trembling, quivering all over. Not crying—I could not cry.

He sat down beside the couch and laid his hand on my shoulder, as though to quiet me.

I closed my eyes, and slowly there stole over me a strange sense of quiet, of peace, like the calm of some strong narcotic. I know now the sensation Helen Chandler spoke of—the exhaustion that sometimes comes after a fierce passion has wrecked itself.

I don't know how long he stayed beside me, or how long it was before I slept.

When I awoke it was dawn. A blanket had been laid over me, and I was alone.

From under his door shone a strip of bright light—he was still awake.

No reference to that night has been made between us since, for a bandaged hand and a bloodstained dress carefully hid away bear testimony to that scene.

The next morning I forced myself to go down to breakfast. He was very pale, and his hand was thickly bandaged; but he said "Good morning" quietly, as though nothing had happened.

During the day a gingler called to fix the bathroom door, evidently had been engaged for one from his office. He made no mention of it to me.

That night when he came home to dinner I saw that he had had been dressed and skillfully bandaged. He had been to a surgeon, then. Was the cut deep? Could it be anything serious? But I dared not ask him.

I can see that he has it bandaged fresh every day. Does it pain him? My heart aches with pity and anxiety; but I can say nothing.

To Be Continued To-morrow.

The Crop

By WEX JONES

AWAY from the city's noise and rush,
Magnity bought a lot
And began a simple garden 'round his cosey cot
To visions he beheld himself obtaining country cuts
From his beds of beans and lettuce, asparagus and beets.

He dug the ground at morning, he watered it at night;
Till his labor made his garden a sweet suburban sight.
But again the old, old story—when the seeds began to sprout,
Came a careless neighbor's chickens and rudely scratched them out.

NEXT year Magnity, full of hope, sowed his seeds in network peas,
And chuckled as he pictured the disappointed hens.
He planned very carefully, and tended every bed
Exactly as his magazine's "This Month's Directions" said.

HE bestowed homeward after work to watch the precious plot,
And felt the joys of husbandry when the first green sprig upshot.
But again the ancient story—good by the home-grown feeds—
There was nothing but nasturtiums—he had mixed the sacks of seeds.

MAGNITY, much discouraged, was yet relieved to read
The newest dodge was lengths of tape, to which was stuck the seed.
Confusion was impossible; you took a labelled strip
And laid it like a cable, a furrow at a clip.

AGAIN Magnity hastened home, he couldn't be too quick.
Till watching at the growing beds he heard a strange "Tick-Tick."
He tore it up; then quit the task to cultivate the grape,
For he'd sowed his little garden with twelve yards of ticker tape.

TAFT AND TRAVERS AS PARTNERS MAKE GREAT TEAM OF GOLF WINNERS

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Mr. Taft played golf at Chevy Chase. Because of that former citadel, our Presidential case still in retirement behind the soothing woodpa. This gave Mr. Taft a sporty, if muscular, look, not at all in keeping with the correctness of his habit.

It was a foursome—whatever that may mean. Champion W. J. Travis was the Presidential partner. Champion Travis and Mr. Taft—to quote the latter gentleman—offered an exhibition of "an expert and a tender pinup," in consequence Mr. Taft as "bumble puppy," a character which he claims he plays to admiration.

Arrayed against Mr. Taft and Mr. Travis were General Edwards and Mr. Hoestman, the latter a local wonder.

In passing it should be made known that General Edwards denies that he ever said he could "cut rings around any Chief Executive who came to the links with a limp."

Against Politeness and Policy.

General Edwards uses no slang. Moreover, he is the last to speak thus lightly of one who has power to make him the uttermost, hottest corner of the Philippines.

As Mr. Taft and his pal conditioned, "floated" and generally bit over themselves while waiting for the ball to reach Chevy Chase links they were eagerly watched by concourses of the local citizens, who in suspicious rure were eagerly watched by a concourse of the local citizens, who in suspicious rure were eagerly watched by a concourse of the local citizens, who in suspicious rure were eagerly watched by a concourse

Man's Worst Enemy —HIMSELF

He That Ruleth His Spirit Is Better Than He That Taketh a City.—Prov., xvi., 32

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Peace may have her victories "no less renowned than war," as the poet Milton assures us, but not even the victories of peace may be secured without fighting for them.

What we get in this world we fight for; not with sword or gun, perhaps, but with energy and thought and labor.

The farmer, whose lot is seemingly the most peaceful of all human employments, is continually waging warfare against weeds, insect pests, droughts, frosts, crows and a thousand other of his natural enemies.

If he doesn't fight for his crops, he doesn't get them.

All business is a fight against other business men who want the same trade. THE BEST FIGHTER GETS THE BEST BUSINESS.

The rising lawyer or doctor is constantly fighting with men he never saw and perhaps never heard of, fighting for recognition which shall give him the greater eminence in fighting the common enemy of doctors and of the human race—disease.

The object of all education, of all training, of all advice of parents to children or of age to youth, is to teach the business of fighting for success.

BUT BEFORE ANY EFFECTIVE FIGHTING CAN BE DONE, BEFORE ANY NOTABLE VICTORY CAN BE GAINED, A MAN MUST FIGHT AND OVERCOME ONE RESOLUTE ENEMY—Himself.

Careful parents try to give their children the best possible training for life. In this training education plays an important part—indeed, it is often overdone, as in cases where parents lay out a sum of money for common school and college courses and cheerfully dismiss the matter from their minds, feeling assured that the teachers will do the rest.

But no training, whether in college or in business, is worth the time spent upon it if it does not include a severe course in SELF-DISCIPLINE.

To teach a boy to be an engineer and master the forces of nature without first teaching him to CONQUER HIS OWN NATURE would be as foolish as teaching a circus performer to stand on his head on a trapeze without first teaching him to get up to the trapeze.

Before he can fight for success a young man must fight himself. And self-discipline can be BEST LEARNED AT HOME, and the earlier it is learned the better.

No army is fit to go into battle if the men who compose it are not disciplined. They must know how to obey orders, to take punishment, to stand fire without flinching. The work of disciplining them is tedious and painful, but it must be done. Until the army can act as ONE MAN it is of NO USE in the field.

In an undisciplined army every commander would be at variance with every other commander; each man would have his own plan of action, each little body of men attempt a different thing.

So in an undisciplined individual. Every taste, every impulse insists upon dominating, and they are allowed to dominate by turns, with the result that their proprietor is about as useful in life as a crowd of mob-law-governed soldiers.

Before attempting any great work there must be PERFECT MENTAL DISCIPLINE. Bad habits must be rooted out. Tastes that are very well in their proper place must be kept in their proper place, and not allowed to interfere with the work at hand.

In short, a man must know how to conquer himself, HOW TO FIGHT DOWN HIS BAD QUALITIES, before he can expect to win any success in the fight he must wage against others.

Take two boys beginning business. Give one of them great talents, winning personality, a fine mind and the other elements that go to make great success in life.

Give the other one only a fair amount of brains, a personality that does not attract and a mind to which knowledge comes slowly.

If the mind of the first boy is undisciplined, despite all its high qualities, it will not avail in the fight for success against the other, provided that is trained to make the very best use of what good there is in it.

You have met with many brilliant men whose lack of success you were at a loss to understand till you found they were CONTINUALLY CHANGING from one purpose to another, pandering to every appetite. WASTING THEIR TIME in selfish indulgence.

Cemeteries are full of such men, all of them with unmarked graves, to which most of them went early, disgusted with a world in which they believed that talent was not rewarded.

Their failure was due alone to lack of mental discipline—to the fact that, knowing that they were their own worst enemies, they FAILED TO FIGHT and vanquish that worst enemy early in life.

We do not believe that men who rise to the top are any less lacking in natural indolence and other bad qualities than those who fail. But at the beginning they DISCOVERED that they were in their own way, and that until they had undertaken the work of conquering themselves they could conquer nothing else.

And so, determinedly, they set to work to discipline themselves, and, having done that, their upward way was easy.

It has been so with EVERY MAN who has reached the top in any line of endeavor.

Once the human machine is well organized, the faculties trained, the will given complete mastery over the senses, the fight with the world is easy.

The hardest thing of all to conquer in the fight with one's self is the tendency of the mind to WANDER away from the work at hand.

If it can be kept directly on the important subject it has to deal with, it will do surprising things.

But unless it has been carefully trained it will wander away, go woolgathering in a dozen different directions, and CONCENTRATION, the essential of success, is impossible.

Every man who has succeeded knows the value of concentration. Most of those who do not succeed have never trained their minds to do it.

That is not possible to every one at first. But it is POSSIBLE TO SHUT OUT DISTRACTIONS; and by doing so the mind will soon become so used to working steadily that it will become proof to ordinary interruptions.

SELF-DISCIPLINE DOES NOT MEAN KEEPING OUT OF THE WAY OF TEMPTATION. A ship kept in a glass house for twenty years would not show any signs of yielding to the stress of weather, but that would not argue that it was fit to sail over the ocean. Keeping a youth away from temptation in the early years of manhood only keeps him in IGNORANCE OF THE DANGER of temptation and of the many forms in which it approaches.

He MUST BE EXPOSED TO TEMPTATION and taught to RESIST it—understand it and rise superior to it—recognize in his weak self an enemy, and set about conquering that enemy.

Schools give a man KNOWLEDGE. WISDOM he must gain for HIMSELF. From other men—in associating with them, working, playing, fighting, arguing—can be learned what we call COMMON SENSE, which is perhaps the rarest of all human qualities.

That common sense enables us to recognize good from bad with a clear vision—it teaches us who our enemies are and when we must prepare to meet their attacks. And it shows us clearly that THE ONE WORST ENEMY IS WITHIN, AND THAT UNTIL THAT IS CONQUERED THERE WILL BE NO PROGRESSION, NO ACCOMPLISHMENT.

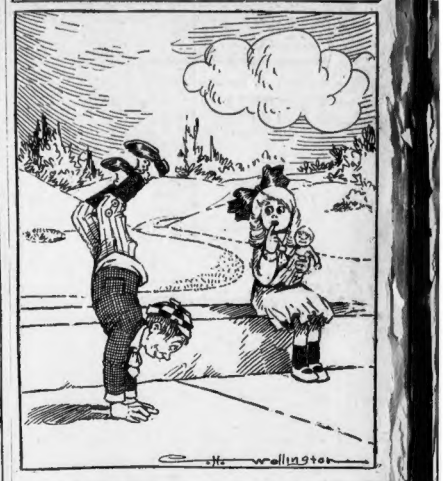
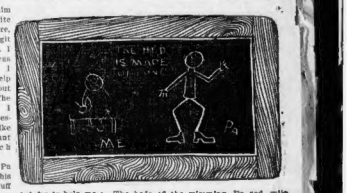
THERE'S A REASON



Little Bobbie's Pa

By William F. Kirk



WHEN I calm hoam last nite Pa was there, he is beginning to git hoam early of lait. I was glad that he was hoam keekaus I wanted him to help me rite a essay about Fizzy-ology. The teecher sed that I had to rite this essay, & I dident like to, beekaus I dont know very much about Fizzy-ology.

When I asked Pa to help me rite this essay, that was enuff for Pa. He is always glad for to help me. He is never so happy as wen he is riteing essays for me.

Grab yure pencil, Bobbie, sed Pa, & hark to wat I have to say. Let not one (1) word of what I have to say ekskip yure shell like corn, sed Pa, for this essay wich I am about to rite for you will be of grate value to yure teecher & to poe-terity, Pa sed. Now git reddy, Pa sed, & rite this:

Fizzy-ology, Pa sed, is the science of how to be a wise agent. The first & greatest Fizzy-ologist was Mister Gnaw, that grate Pershun. He had a side line, too, sed Pa. He blit tents, not so much beekaus he needed the munny as beekaus he cuddent go hoam & had to have a tent or sembling to wich to sleep in.

Lissen here, Ma sed. Dont you think that will be about enuff foolishness. Dont you think that you ought to help yure littel son rite his essay without puting in any of the low comedy. Tell him wat to rite about Fizzy-ology, which means the study of the human body.

O dear me, sed Pa. Since wen did Fizzy-ology beegin to mean anything about the human body? It is true, sed Pa, that I was kidding Bobbie a littel about that wise thing, but dont you think I know as well as you do that Fizzy-ology is the study of the earth & its formashun & the mountings & rivers, etc. That is Fizzical Geografy, sed Ma. Fizzy-ogy is th study of the human body.

O very well, sed Pa. Let it go that way. Take yure pencil eggenn, Bobbie, Pa sed, & rite wat I say: The human body is one (1) of the most wunderus works of Nacher. It is composed of two legs (2) & two (2) arms, & a trunk & a hed. The hed is made of bone, Pa sed to me & sumtimes it is thick & sumtimes it is thin.

The heds of the winning, Pa sed, wile they are smaller than the heds of the men, are as a rule thicker, hence the term Boneheds. I am not sure that yure lady teecher will like that line, Bobbie, but I am a true historian & I must rite wat I think.

The arms, sed Pa, are a wunderful thing. There is two (2) of them, each tipped with a hand, or wat we experts calle a mitt. The mitt can be used for grate & good purposes, such as endorsing notes, or it can be used for base things, such as borrowing bank bills. As the poet sed, in riteing about the mitt,

The mitt accu-mulates the hoard,
& vary grate is it;
The pen is mitier than the sword
But both require the mitt.

The legs, Pa sed, are two (2) of the gratest parts of Fizzy-ology. Without legs, Pa sed, living husbands cud never git to the Subway to mait thare way hoam to thare deer wifes. Without legs, sed Pa, we cud never walk to & from our plaices of business, we cud never waits, we cud never two (2) step, we cud never run from a poleeceman, & we cud never climb a poarch. Without legs, the noablest freed of man, we would be as useless as 1[illegible] anny dee-koy ducks, Pa sed.

Next, Bobbie, sed Pa, is the heart. The heart of man is a wunderful organ, Pa sed. It is wat maiks him bruv & tender to his wife, Pa sed, & keeps him from forgetting altogether his girl freends wich went to skool with him. The heart is the father of poetry, art, musick, loans, affnitys, etc.

Doant you think you have rote about enuff, Bobbie, sed Ma.

He hassent started, sed Pa.

He has futshed, sed Ma.

& I was futshed.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

VIOLATING SANITARY LAWS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I would like to see your opinion in one of your valuable editorials about this important matter:

The city of Boston is employing the best remedies to prevent all kinds of diseases, and is prosecuting those that do not comply with the sanitary regulations. At the same time the city of Boston is violating the law every day in the week by taking out ashes and swill during the daytime in the summer months.

In the crowded quarters it is a dangerous thing to do, as the germs are spread and cause a complication of disease. There should be no garbage hours in the morning or evening for such purposes.

THE "TIPPING" PROBLEM

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I quote from an editorial in one of the Boston papers. "The person who watches for the tip is a waster of time and a bad servant. When waiters are willing to accept good living wages and employers are willing to give them, then the dishonest 'tip' will pass away."

Knowing that your paper has always stood for justice, I appeal to you to right the wrong that has been done to the waiters of this city by this most bitter attack. A guest in my dining room is never requested to give a waiter a tip for his services, nor does the guest give a tip unless he feels so disposed. Does the gentleman that penned those few lines have to toil long and weary hours, catering to all kinds of cranky and irritable people, for the small sum of $1 per day? And does he have a wife and children dependent on him for their daily bread?

In this city there are no less than 5,000 men who work as waiters; the majority of them are married and have families. Do you think them dishonest when they accept a tip from a satisfied guest who has been properly served and cared for?

Probably the time will come when a waiter will receive sufficient salary so that he will not have to humble himself so much as to accept a tip. Why don't the proprietors of hotels and restaurants give waiters more and fair salary?

The kindness shown by your paper in the past is highly appreciated by all the waiters.

WILLIAM MARSELLA.
